STRASBOURG, Germany, Sept. 1.—The first patrols of the French army of occupation will begin evacuating the Rhineland during the first day of October. The first battalion of infantry to leave German territory will be a temporarily stationed garrison at Weissenburg, in Alsace.BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—The first actual step toward the creation of a United States of Europe was taken tonight when Premier Briand of France prepared invitations convoking the chief delegates of all European nations represented at the tenth assembly of the League of Nations to a meeting next Monday or Tuesday.

At this meeting the Frenchman will expose in detail his conception of a federation of European powers, political, economic and social. He will outline in a rough draft his project for solidarity among European powers and independence between them.

His statement will stress emphatically that this federation is not aimed against the interests of the United States of America.

McDonald friendly to plan.

Premier Briand and Dr. Stresemann, German foreign minister, dined tonight with Prime Minister MacDonald at the departure of the latter for England. They discussed the United States of Europe scheme and Mr. McDonald showed more sympathy toward it than had been expected. The German foreign minister also seemed extremely favorable to the plan.

Premier Briand will ask the delegations of 15 European powers to submit his plan to their governments when they return to their capitals and ask for suggestions and additional ideas for the establishment of the federation.

The success and prosperity of the United States of America will be taken as an example of what a unified Europe might be able to accomplish.

Urgent League Police Force.

The necessity for an international police force to execute the provisions of the Kellogg peace pact and the League of Nations' covenant for the prevention of war, and the necessity for an international loan, to be guaranteed by all signatories to these conventions, to aid nations forced into war or threatened by war, was urged by Premier Briand and Finance Minister Marie of Belgium at today's debate before the assembly.

The grizzled French premier rejected France's pet scheme for a common army and navy, composed of land and fleets from all the powers, as necessary to enforce the spirit of the pact outlawing war and the League's decisions against aggressors and world peace. He said the plan had not performed its duty unless force to compel respect for the pact was constituted.

What Can League Do?

When an organization like the League has condemned war, has it not done its work and done its full duty? he said. "We can never say that the League has not taken all precautions to prevent the outbreak of war, and provided all means for arresting it when it has broken out."

If any nation overrides the decisions of the league, if there should be a provocation that we were unable to prevent an outbreak of war, could this association of nations do?

Sharing resources at its disposal leave them unused? I think it unavoidable. We must be able to use the people of the world that we have condemned war but urged a secular arm to prevent punishment if it breaks out."

Early Evacuation of Rhine.

Regarding the Hague reparations conference, Premier Briand favored an early commencement of the French military evacuation of the Rhine.

"In the near future the last traces of the difficulties between France and Germany will be removed," he said, touching on disarmament. M. Briand

IT'S TOO BAD RAMSAY MACDONALD AND GEN. DAWES HAVEN'T
THE BENEFIT OF ALL THIS EXPERT OPINION IN THEIR NAVAL DELIBERATIONSKIDNAPED FROM HIS HOME BY SHOTGUN GANG

A gang of four or five men, all wearing smoke-colored glasses and carrying sawed-off shotguns entered the home of Peter Prusitis, 27 years old, a painter, at 3901 Wallace street, shortly after midnight this morning and routed him from bed. Taking him to the street, they bundled him into a small touring car and drove away.

Deering street police were investigating to determine whether he had been kidnapped and taken for a ride by gangsters, while a call was sent out to all detective bureaus to hunt for the car and to locate the men.

Officials at the federal building denied that any government agents had made a raid on Prusitis' home and there was no record at the police stations to show that police were seeking Prusitis, strengthening the theory that he had been kidnapped by gangsters.

The police questioned Prusitis' bride, Marie, whom he married on Tuesday. She said she had not recognized any of the kidnappers. Mrs. Prusitis was divorced last Dec. 16, she told the police.

It was 90 degrees or hotter in Chicago on only six days during the three summer months, according to records made public yesterday by Prof. Henry J. Cox of the weather bureau. The summer record was halved as further proof that Chicago is one of the world's pleasantest summer resorts.

While the facts about Chicago's summer were being compiled under the direction of C. A. Donnel, chief assistant to Prof. Cox, Chicago was enjoying relief from one of its brief hot spells. Cool breezes and a slight rainfall yesterday put an end to five days of summer heat. In the early morning hours, the mercury began tumbling and it slumped from 83 at 3 a. m. to 62 at 4 p. m.

Chicago's hottest day of the present summer fell on Aug. 22, when the mercury climbed to 93 degrees, surpassed only by 2 of a degree July's warm-only one July day did the mercury reach 90 degrees above above.

June stood at 2.9 degrees below normal, while August dropped one degree below normal. July showed 1.3 degrees above the average.

Detroit was 12 times as hot.

FINDS LIBERTY DIES MARTYR TO SAINT VOLSTEAD

In Maine Spies Frisk You on Way to Store.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Chicago Tribune Press Service.
Jackman, Me., Sept. 5. (Special.)—
You have no adequate conception of the virtues of Volsteadism until you have experienced it in this region of Maine close to the Canadian border.
For here the American citizen finds himself deprived by the government of Washington of the last vestige of freedom and compelled to obtain the essence of the prohibition beadle to ordinary comings and goings about business and pleasure.

Like hundreds of other summer visitors to this unpolished forest retreat we are housed in log cabins on the banks of a tiny trout lake between Maine and the Canadian boundary.
We are six miles north of Jackman and ten miles south of the dominion border.

Glide Through Forest.

Suppose we wish to drive into Jackman for some trout flies. We get out the old bus. The other members of the family enlist for the ride. We glide three miles through the forest until we come to the Quebec road which leads from Jackman.

There we pause and look warily about for the customs and prohibition agents who lurk along these roads and trails watching the movements of residents and guests of this region.
We have the family in the car and cannot risk being shot at by a quick trigger. Federal agents, moreover, will tell they have taken of the lives of American citizens in the name of Saint Volstead. We have long ago resolved to stop instantly at anybody's command—even a highwayman's.

Held? There's Spy in Bus.

Yes, there is a customs sleuth. He is hidden in the bushes. We move forward at a snail's pace that he may have no excuse to shoot. He puts his hand on his hip and our hair stands on end. Perhaps he is merely resting his trigger finger. We know it is nothing more. We know we are innocent.
We have no liquor. We have seen no liquor. But it is the law. We must see just the same as a federal man on the road with his hand on his hip.

He gets by that he isle without misfortune. He emerges upon the highway and turns south to Jackman. When we have proceeded a mile we come to the United States customs station at which persons entering the country are examined. The custom house is not on the border.

It is 11 miles from the border and the customs inspection have no means of knowing whether the southbound travelers are entering the country from Canada or are residents or guests in the region between the custom house and the border.

Then, Bureaucracy in Action.

But this presents no difficulty to bureaucracy, which decrees that all persons approaching from the north shall be treated as travelers entering the country and therefore suspect of smuggling liquor until they prove otherwise.

We approach the custom house.
There are at least 25 cars of tourists in line waiting inspection. If we get into line and wait our turn for inspection it will take the whole afternoon to do our errand at Jackman. We choose to be courageous, to refuse to get into line. We are American citizens. We have not been out of the country. Why should we be inspected by the customs? We pass the line of cars but we do not sail past the customs house. Our courage is not equal to that display of faith in the righteousness of our cause. Besides, several customs men have interrupted our progress by stopping us and have started in our direction. We stop before the shooting begins. A stern inspector approaches.

Please, May We Pass?

"Please, Mr. Inspector," we say,
"we may go to Jackman to get some trout flies. We are American citizens. We are fishing at Headland camp. We have not been out of the country."

The inspector looks us over, peers into the car, seeing no baggage.

"Sure, you haven't been in Canada?" he demands suspiciously. "You haven't been up to the line?"

This question has a special significance in the north land for there is no line. There is a roadhouse, the house is a roadhouse, through the barroom thereof. You enter the taproom on American soil, but by the time you stand at the bar you are on Canadian soil. Ale and beer only are sold at this bar, which flourished on the thirst of prohibition America long before the Volstead era, when Maine was dry save for the prevalence of inns in the cowhide boots of the first bootleggers.

Please, You May Pass.

"No, we have not been to the line," we assure the customs man, "and we may not get into line without files in Jackman. Please, may we go?"

"Well, all right, go on," says the inspector with suspicion not entirely allayed, but an air of conferring a great favor.

By this time we are bursting with the sense of the outrage that American citizens, who have not been out of the country, should be subjected to the surveillance of the prohibition agents, and compelled to get the permission of a man in uniform to go to the store for a spool of thread. Having got our trout flies we search out James Smith, the chief customs inspector for the Jackman district, and the customs house is not situated on the first floor.

Residents and Guests.

Residents and guests in the region between the customs house and the boundary have no real complaint
he feels, because the customs men have accorded them great privileges.

It is, it seems, Chief Inspector Smith and his privilege of going to Jackman without inspection upon identifying the inspectors as to previous movements. Anybody not satisfied with that privilege is an ingrate, Chief Inspector Smith avers.

The real reason that the customs house is not situated on the first floor.

Wins Officials

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special.]—The native explanation of her hostess that Miss Valerie French, granddaughter of the late Field Marshal Sir John French, Earl of Ypres, had sailed for America without a passport because she "did not know that it was necessary for an English person coming to an English speaking country to have a passport" won her case before the immigration commission today.

Quizzed as to the prevalence of the population by customs inspectors and the fears inspired by the shooting up of the citizenry by the federal men from time to time, Chief Inspector Smith unbosoms himself.

"Don't get the wrong idea, now," says Mr. Smith. "The inspector who shot is not trying to kill a citizen.
He shot at the tires of a car. But, maybe now, there is a shot at wild and kills somebody. Purely accidental. That's what the public doesn't seem to understand."

Shots May Go Wild.

"And shots are bound to go wild.
Customs inspectors are not trained in shooting as they should be. He aims at the tires, but the shot goes high.
It always does unless you are trained in short distance shooting without aim. And, of course, when a shot goes high it is likely to get the person in the head. I have my way about it, but customs inspectors would be allowed to use a gun until he has received training in short distance, rapid fire revolver shooting. Not aiming along a barrel, you understand, but quick shooting without aim. It is indefensible, in my opinion, to allow inspectors to use guns without marksmanship training. There is no training at all provided now."

ask him the reason for the imposition.

Mr. Smith is a genuine bureaucrat.
He has been in the service many years and possesses the bureaucratic attitude toward civilians that a government house like Mr. Smith, is situated 11 miles from the line because that is the most convenient location for it.

BARES BUCKET SHOP METHODS; LIST IS SEIZED

Raids Reveal Wealth of 3 States Is Recorded.

The methods of the so-called bucket shop operators were revealed last night to Chief Investigator Paul Roche and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows in a statement made by J. F.
Dowd & Co., 120 North La Salle
operated under the name of J. F.
Dowd & Co., 120 North La Salle street. The Dowd organization was one of two places raided yesterday by the state's attorney's detectives under the command of Lieut. William V.
Bull, of the sheriff's office.

The Hamilton King company, 309
South La Salle street, was the first placed raided. It was discovered that the Dowd concern had some connection with the Hamilton King company. Dowd was later arrested in a raid on his offices. He then made his statement, in which the prosecutors say that he had $250,000 obtained from persons eager to clean up on the stock market.

RABS OF HOLY LAND INFLAME TRIBES TO REVOLT

Issue Call for Men, Cash and Arms.

BY LARRY RUE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

JERUSALEM, Sept. 5.—(P)—Arabian and Jewish sources today appealed to public opinion for support of their contentions respecting the underlying causes of the disorders that have racked Palestine for a fortnight.

The United Jewish organization in the country, according to the correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic agency, submitted a memorandum to Sir John Chancellor, high commissioner for Palestine, in which responsibility for the bloodshed was placed upon arbitration, fostered by Amin El Husseini, grand mufti of Jerusalem, and president of the Moslem council, and also on certain members of the Palestine government.

Jews and Arabs Appeal to World Opinion on Riots

walling wall were only a pretext for furthering these ideas.

The memorandum accused the government of inefficiency in handling the riots when they first started. It said the authorities ignored insults inflicted in the Jews at the wailing wall and then gave courage to the lawless elements.

The blanket censorship of telephone lines and newspapers was also condemned and the administration was accused of "attempt to mutilate the truth of events" in order to deceive the public opinion throughout the world as to the real cause of the outbreaks.

For demands were made on behalf of Palestine Jewry. The first agreed with one put forward by the Arab executive in that it asked for a commission of inquiry independent of the London government.

Address Message to League.

The executive committee of the Arab national congress drew up a lengthy message to the league of nations at Geneva, asserting that the British demanded that the Arab be punished and called the situation by its pro-Jewish policies and asking the league to see that a parliamentary government representative of the Arabian majority was installed.

The Jewish Telegraphic agency report of the memorandum given to the high commissioner said that the memorandum emanated from the national council of Palestine Jews, the chief rabbi and the orthodox Jewish organization, known as Agudath Israel.

The document said that as early as 1921 propaganda had aroused among the Moslems suspicion that their property and their women were in danger and that the disputes over the rescue with money, men and arms.

The curfew order is still enforced throughout Palestine. Nobody, except the British, is allowed to be allowed in the streets after 8 p. m.

Automobiles circulate the country without danger and trains are running on schedule. The farmers have returned to work in the fields, and even those in the various Jewish colonies are working.

Wounded Crowd Hospitals.

In the hospitals there are still officially 175 Jews and 132 Moslems. More than 150 wounded Jews are in private homes. More than 3,500 Jews evacuated from their homes. Some of these homes were looted and destroyed. No provisions have been made for feeding and housing and medical conditions are bad.

The dead commissioners here today fed 450 refugees from Hebron. Two thousand five hundred Jews who evacuated from Safed, were given shelter in stables. They had no food until some was obtained from other Jewish colonies.

Outside of the eight Americans originally reported dead, all wounded, including Dr. Edward Winchester of Chicago, former rabbi at Springfield, Ill., are recovering rapidly. There are no other American fatalities.

Chicagoan Stabbed Seven Times.

Rabbi Winchester was stabbed seven times and received two major wounds, one in the groin and the other in the chest.

For once, said Deputy Police Commissioner Stege last night, the veil which always seems to hide the motives for the killing of gangsters, has been lifted a little bit.

"We have learned the reason for the executions of Cy Cawley and Edward Westcott, whose bodies were found early this [Thursday] morning near Rile park, near Fullerton and Narragansett avenues," said Deputy Stege. "The motive is simple.

"Usually, in a case like this, the regrettable tendency is to raise a complicated and imaginary case, accusing the popularly known gangsters, such as the Capone-Guzik syndicate, or the Moran-Carlo faction, or the Maltese gang, the O'Donnells, the Drug-gangs, and so forth.

City Given a Bad Name.

"This is the result of theorizing has given Chicago a bad name, for it makes of every murder, whatever the real motive, a significant link in a chain of organized crime. The most isolated crimes have been so charged, until it must appear to the outside world that Chicago's technique of murder surpasses that of any other city. As a matter of fact, it is the same here as the world over."

"Now, Frank Cawley, better known as Cy, had many enemies who were anxious to kill him. Most underworld characters have, but he was a low sort. He and his three most notorious pals, all of whom have been murdered in recent months, preyed upon their own kind. They were so cheap they wouldn't think up their own crimes, but they went out riding in gambling houses, vice dens, bookmakers and shady racketeer organizations.

The other three were Thomas McGillicut, who was killed in Stale's cafe, and Michael Reilly and William Clifford, whose bodies were found one night in Cicero. They were cheap criminals, and a newcomer to Cawley's society of the same stamp was Eddie Westcott.

Story of the Killings.

"Why were these two killed? The motive of the case were brought to me by a man who was present when the motive was established, and who heard the decision made to take this revenge."

"At Van Buren street and Lavergne avenue is an athletic field where baseball games are played every Sunday. While the ball game is on, a gang of young roustabouts has habitually gathered, out in left field, to shoot dice.

"The gang hasn't any name, but to satisfy the desire of the gang roasters, they made a late night call to the 'Left Field Gang.' It has no leaders, I'm told, and the players are supposed to be petty racketeers.

"It happened last Sunday that there was no ball game played. But the dice game was on. At its height five men quietly joined the group and after entering into the play for a short time, they all drew revolvers.

Dice Game Cleaned Out.

"They cleaned up the money on the ground, took what more they could handily from the players, and were gone. The losers were furious, and counted their losses at $6,000. Immediately there was talk of revenge, and at once the blame was put upon Cawley and his gang. Cawley wasn't one of the stickup men—he was too well known to be able to pull that—but it was unanimously agreed that he had arranged the robbery.

"So it was decided, in the anger of this crew of petty lawbreakers, that they would have to take revenge. They chose Cawley and Willie Davis, one of the original members of the disrupted old gang, who was accused of joining in the plot with Cawley, as their victims.

"We have gone back over the movements of Cawley, before the murder, and find him leaving a restaurant at 3940 Chicago avenue to go to the wake of Michael Winnick, whose body lay at 1410 North Harding avenue. Winnick had been a minor politician in the ward. He'd had ambitions and was known to all sorts of people, including criminals.

Taken for Ride by Gang.

"Cawley and Westcott went to get into the wake, paid their respects and left. They were next found, shot to death, on the edge of Rile park. It is logical to assume that the killers, some of the crap shooters of the 'left field' gang, saw their prey at the wake, and invited them to ride along.

"Once in the car, it was a simple matter to subdue them with revolvers until they came to the lonely murder spot. Here the victims were ordered out of the car and the slugs they stood on the sidewalk. The killers put a nickel in the palm of each victim, to brand them as cheap skates criminals unworthy to live."

"It was lucky for Davis that he didn't happen to be with Cawley. I hope we can reach him before the revenge gang does. The killers, although my information indicates they weren't after him particularly, probably thought Westcott also was involved in the dice game holdup."

Lieut. John Norton, last night sought members of the ball team which plays on Sunday at Van Buren street and Lavergne avenue. He wanted them to identify members of the "left field" gang.

He was especially assigned to bring in the team's left fielder.

and referred to Prime Minister MacDonald's statement, yesterday regarding a naval agreement with the United States. He recalled his ill-fated naval compromise with Great Britain, which aroused America.

"If a naval agreement comes between the United States and Great Britain, the preparatory commission will then be able to fix an early date to convene a plenary disarmament conference," he said.

M. Hyman supported the French demands for sanctions to enforce the League's dictates. He also endorsed Mr. MacDonald's proposal for a revision of the league covenant.

MacDonald Pledges to Disarm.

Speaking at the luncheon of the International Organization of Journalists, Prime Minister MacDonald today said:

"I am perfectly certain that world peace opinion is tremendous, sincere and has a determined desire for peace. Sixty-five per cent of the peoples will hold up their hands to President Hoover and I when we solve the problem of naval limitation."

"It is not a question for experts and old fashioned foolish ideas must not prevent us from reaching an agreement."

"We have difficulties but the will of the people is more powerful than any other, and in the end must have the last word."

German Warns U. S.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—"In its discussions of limitation of naval armaments with Great Britain, the United States seems to be in great danger of forgetting the tremendously important new factor which changes the naval constellation—the Diesel airplane engines, which increase the speed and multiply the radius of even the oldest of the small cruisers."

This warning is sounded by a prominent German naval officer to the United States.

"If the United States and Great Britain come to an agreement on the number and size of big cruisers, this does not mean that a parity is assured. In building its new battle cruisers and remodeling its old small units, Germany is making use of the new Diesel type of engines. Owing to their comparatively light weight and low fuel consumption, they give a ship twice the speed and multiply its radius of action."

England Would Be Far Ahead.

"If America, in a generous gesture, agrees to waive limitation of the number of small units—and England has vast quantities of them—then it probably will suddenly wake up and find England far ahead of it in naval power. All England has to do is to replace the old engines with the new powerful Diesel ones. It will have to use the most speedy ships that, thanks to their great cruising radius and their small number, represent a tremendous naval asset."

KEEPER OF INN FINED.

Henry Kinnell, alleged keeper of Mike de Ville's Burr Oak Inn, was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Justice of the Peace William Ward of Park Ridge.

$15,000,000 IS SET AS FARMERS' PROFIT YEARLY FROM SEAWAY

Illinois farmers will profit by $15,000,000 a year with the completion of the Illinois waterway, James L. Donnelly, vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, said last night in a speech to members of the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Moving their crops to markets by low water freight rates, the farmers in the Des Plaines-Illinois-Mississippi valley will command higher prices, Mr. Donnelly said.

"The waterway, which should be completed in 1931," said Mr. Donnelly, "will reduce the farmers' freight rates by 20 per cent. Farmers will also be paid by grain by water 200 miles for 1 cent. Fast packet steamers for vegetables, grain, fruit, and other produce will be operated between Illinois river points and St. Louis and Chicago."

"Farmers within forty miles of the waterway produce 200 million bushels a year, and most of the grain is shipped by rail to market. The grain will be hauled to water on trucks over well paved roads and shipped to New Orleans at a saving of from 5 to 10 cents a bushel."

"It is estimated that the waterway will move 20 million tons of freight annually within ten years after its completion. It will bring prosperity to Illinois farmers and manufacturers."

SPEEDING TO SEE DYING RELATIVE, ARRESTED, FINED

Attorney Irving G. Sofran, 1243 Chase avenue, who was halted by an Oak Park motorcycle policeman on Sunday as he was driving 64 miles an hour to visit his dying father-in-law, Police Magistrate James M. Feron. Sofran said he had received a message that his father-in-law was dying in the Franklin Boulevard hospital. When stopped he asked Policeman E. Olson to accompany him there.

Olson refused and took Sofran to the station. While awaiting bond Sofran called the hospital and learned that the father-in-law, Philip E. Kunz, 719 South Kosner avenue, had died. Magistrate Feron ruled that although the case was one of emergency, the speed was unreasonable. Ordinarily the fine would have been $200, he said.

Racketeers Are Blamed for Beating of Tailor

Racketeers were blamed by the police last night for the attack on Max Nadler, who was beaten probably fatally in his tailor shop at 1044 Belmont avenue on Wednesday night. The police learned that Nadler had refused recently to join a business men's association which claimed he was a racketeer, although he had been warned to join the union or give up the cleaning branch of his work. Miss Rachel Nadler, 20 years old, his daughter, was released after being questioned by police and convincing them she was absent from home when her father was attacked.

TAX OFFICIALS RUN INTO COUNTY HORNETS' NEST

Plea for More Cash Has Violent Recoil.

BY CARL WARREN.

With Harry S. Cutmore, revenue director, as the immediate object of their wrath, members of the county board at a stormy session yesterday went on a rampage against the 1928 tax reassessment program, which they assailed as the cause of the county's financial distress.

Mr. Cutmore, who came before the board with a request for an additional $15,000 to complete the assessment, and Assistant Charles Ringer, accompanied him, were put on the grill by the indignant commissioners for nearly an hour. During that time the petitioners were accused of waste, extravagance, pay roll padding and some other things. The call was untimely in view of the revelations of the day before that county employees were in prospect of being paid in scrip, the tills being practically empty.

Board Refuses Appropriation.

The upshot of the meeting was the refusal of the board to allow the appropriation.

COUNTY TREASURER H. A. Harding on Wednesday also issued a statement that the county corporate fund is almost exhausted and that unless unexpected funds can be obtained county employees will have to be paid with scrip on and after Sept. 20. The county commissioners, like the officials of the city, school board and other local taxing bodies, profess the belief that the reassessment, which failed to boost valuations up to their expectations, is the root of their dilemma.

Further, the county board, in addition to suffering with the rest from the lowered valuations, has been footing the bill for the reassessment work. This has totaled about $1,250,000 to date. Also Chairman Malone of the state tax commission has been quoted as stating that the county financial stringency is due to the extravagance of the commissioners. And it was Mr. Malone who fathered the reassessment.

Scene Set for Them.

Therefore, when Mr. Cutmore and Mr. Ringer arrived with their request for more money, unbeknownst to them the scene was all set for their reception.

Mr. Cutmore briefly explained that the money was needed to continue

Hoover Will Urge England to Cut Cruiser Program

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—Counter proposals to the latest British suggestions for effecting cruiser equality between the United States and Great Britain now are under preparation by the administration and probably will be forwarded the latter part of this week to Ambassador Charles G. Dawes for submission to Ramsey MacDonald, the British premier.

In these communications an attempt will be made to persuade the British government to modify its total cruiser demands and accept a maximum figure considerably lower than is now asked by the British admiralty. An effort will also be made to have the British modify their objection to this country's desire to construct virtually all of its cruiser tonnage in eight inch, 10,000 ton ships.

Information current today disclosed that the British want to hold down American 10,000 ton 8-inch gun ships to less than 20, which would mean the abandonment of from 3 to 5 of the salaries of his staff of experts. With it, he said, the work should soon be completed. Immediately the commissioners opened fire.

"Every month you come in here and ask for more money," asserted Commissioner Newby. "You must think we have a magic barrel to dig into."

"But we must finish the job and—" Cutmore started to explain. Newby interrupted.

"That's What You Always Say."

"That's what you always say—we must finish the job," he said. "What we want to know is when you are going to finish it. We think that this job would be finished now and that it would cost only $800,000. But you're still at it and still spending money. All our distress is caused by the delay in your office. Meanwhile, we are being accused of inefficiency, extravagance, and everything else."

Mr. Newby apparently was referring to Chairman Malone's charges.

President Cermak cut into the Newby-Cutmore debate with a comment that a good many men in the assessors' office are "just on the pay roll loafing." This brought Mr. Ringer to his feet.

"That's not a fact," he shouted. "There isn't a damn man loafing down there."

"We-e-ll," Mr. Cermak drawled, "you've got about a hundred employees supposed to be doing the work that Cutmore is handling. How about that?"

Mr. Ringer explained that the as-

15 cruisers authorized by the last congress.

The British are willing to maintain fewer 10,000 ton cruisers than the United States but are subject to be compensated by being permitted to maintain a comparative large number of smaller ships.

Acceptance of this suggestion would mean that there would be a wide disparity both in the number of cruisers maintained by each nation and a maximum figure considerably lower than is now asked by the British admiralty.

An effort will also be made to have the British modify their objection to this country's desire to construct virtually all of its cruiser tonnage in eight inch, 10,000 ton ships.

Great Britain's present cruiser needs are set at 50, twenty fewer ships than in 1927, a reduction of more than 100,000 tons.

In the Geneva conference of 1927, the British delegation wanted to limit only the 8-inch gun cruiser. Each nation would have been allowed to build all the smaller 8-inch gun ships that it considered necessary for national defense. The United States, however, refused to agree to a treaty that did not permit this country to build its tonnage in 8-inch gun ships and which did not set a total tonnage limit beyond which neither nation could build.

The lawyers charged by the board with devising a relief plan are Haynes, attorney for the board, and George W. Lennon, representing Mr. Harding.

Only one plan thought possible of fulfillment was suggested at the conference. It was stated that the lawyers find a way around the state law limiting the issuance of tax anticipation warrants to 75 per cent of the anticipated tax revenue.

Like each of the other big local tax spending bodies, in particular the school board, the county commissioners have borrowed up to the limit on anticipated income. At present it is paying $55,000 a month interest on approximately $8,000,000 worth of 1929 corporate fund warrants. This amount is 75 per cent of $11,500,000, the total anticipated revenue for the year.

At a meeting of officials of the school board yesterday it was announced that $22,000,000 will have to be slashed from school expenditures next year because of the cash shortage. Under a requirement inserted by the legislature in the school tax increase bill last June, the board must make a formal budget for 1930. The $22,000,000 shortage developed in calculations preliminary to the budget making.

are guilty of recklessly spending the money, and, second, because of the delay in the reassessment."

For a half hour the verbal hostilities continued, winding up with the announcement of Mr. Cermak that he would not sign the $65,000 appropriation because the request was submitted to the British Cruiser and not by members of the board of assessors. Commissioner Newby moved that the request be sent back to the assessors to sign and the motion carried unanimously. The board decided to adjourn for two weeks, meaning that the request will not be considered again until Sept. 13.

The commissioners then went through the formality of adjourning but they reassembled in a huddle with Mr. Harding in the president's office. When they emerged they announced that they had appealed to their legal and financial advisors for aid in finding a way out of the corporate fund shortcoming.

"The situation is very bad, but I am hopeful that we will find some way to meet our pay rolls without using scrip," Mr. Cermak said after the conference.

He is believed to have a man claiming to be Waggoner present in the Chase National bank, New York, to which the Denver funds were transferred, and deposited part of the certified drafts in other banks to cover indebtedness.

On Aug. 28 three women and two men filed telegrams to the New York headquarters of six Denver banks instructing them to deposit in the Wall street branch of the Chase National bank sums ranging from $75,000 to $100,000, a total of $500,000, to the credit of the Bank of Telluride.

The Denver Post says the search for Waggoner took on an international aspect when reports were received that a man who presented the drafts may have taken passage on the Graf Zeppelin, which sailed from Lakehurst, N. J. Sunday.

FIND DYNAMITE ALONG ROADSIDE; BELIEVED BOMBS

One hundred and six sticks of dynamite, believed to have been dumped by bombers, was found by forest police yesterday strown along the road at 15th street and Torrence avenue.

The discovery was made by Chief Arthur L. Lounsbury of the forest police and Lieut. Edward Callahan who were making a tour of the land to guard against forest fires. As they drove up they found one of their policemen walking beside the road picking up the explosive under the impression that it was sticks of wood.

NORTH RIVERSIDE PAVING DEAL IS UPHELD BY BOARD

The village board of North Riverside at a special meeting last night voted for a second time to award a paving contract to the H. G. Goeltz company of Oak Park, in the face of opposition of property owners representing 74 per cent of the frontage.

The Goeltz company's bid was $442,000. The Standard Paving company was the lower bidder at $391,000.

Architectural engineer N. C. Nichols, a real estate man, said he would petition the board to accept the offer of the property owners to do the work for 10 per cent less than the Goeltz bid.

FINAL HONORS TO BE GIVEN DEVER AT RITES TODAY

Cardinal Mundelein Will Pronounce Blessing.

Former Mayor William E. Dever will go to his grave in Calvary cemetery this morning with the blessings of the Roman Catholic church. It is the first time in the history of the city that a mayor has been offered a final blessing. The cardinal is chairman of the state board of pardons and paroles. An early announcement of his appointment is expected from Gov. Emmerson.

He is a law partner of former State Senator Thurlow G. Essington, Republican nominee for governor in 1924, and has been a member of the anti-Small forces in this section for several years. He is now chairman of the La Salle county central committee. Recently he was special counsel in the trial of Harry Hill, who was sentenced to death.

Attorney Jones is scheduled to succeed Hinton G. Clabaugh of Chicago, who tendered his resignation several months ago. Other changes in the personnel of the board are expected.

A death watch over the body was held all last night by friends and members of his family. At an early hour this morning they were still softly coming and going, standing or kneeling before the gray casket banked in flowers. People from all walks of life and of all ages were among the sorrowing.

Pall Bearers Old Friends. The pall bearers, old time friends of the deceased, will carry the body from the residence at 5801 Kenmore avenue at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The cortège will proceed north from there to Throop avenue. Then it will turn west to Broadway and on Broadway it will turn south to the church.

After the services the cortège will move east in Catalpa avenue to Sherman road, proceeding north to June-way terrace, west to Chicago avenue, Evanston, and thence north to Calvary cemetery.

Both the city council and the county board held special meetings yesterday and paid their last respects to the man with whom the members had been well acquainted during his public life. The city hall will be closed today, and such offices of the county as are under the control of the county board also will be closed. This was done further to give the many employees of the city and county an opportunity to attend the funeral.

Praised in Council. The special council meeting Ald. A. F. Frankhauser, in whose ward the former mayor had resided, passed a resolution sending forth the honesty and integrity of the deceased. In the resolution it was set forth that all members of the council and heads of city departments would attend the funeral in a body.

Al. Jacob Arvey at once seconded the motion. Resolution was adopted. Locomotive speeches were made by Ald. George M. Maypole, [3rd], whose father served in the city council with Dever many years ago, and who himself served under Dever as mayor, by Ald. Charles S. Eaton [5th], Guy Guernsey [6th], and William D. Moyers [8th].

After the services the cortège will move east in Catalpa avenue to Sherman road, proceeding north to June-way terrace, west to Chicago avenue, Evanston, and thence north to Calvary cemetery.

Both the city council and the county board held special meetings yesterday and paid their last respects to the man with whom the members had been well acquainted during his public life. The city hall will be closed today, and such offices of the county as are under the control of the county board also will be closed. This was done further to give the many employees of the city and county an opportunity to attend the funeral.

Praised in Council. The special council meeting Ald. A. F. Frankhauser, in whose ward the former mayor had resided, passed a resolution sending forth the honesty and integrity of the deceased. In the resolution it was set forth that all members of the council and heads of city departments would attend the funeral in a body.

Al. Jacob Arvey at once seconded the motion. Resolution was adopted. Locomotive speeches were made by Ald. George M. Maypole, [3rd], whose father served in the city council with Dever many years ago, and who himself served under Dever as mayor, by Ald. Charles S. Eaton [5th], Guy Guernsey [6th], and William D. Moyers [8th].

The county board resolution was introduced by President Cermak, one

BORAH AN ALLY OF DEMOCRATS TO FIGHT TARIFF

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Possibility of the ultimate failure of all tariff legislation was advanced today by Senator J. T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader of the senate. While conceding that the senate would pass a bill, Senator Robinson was of the opinion that it might be necessary to accept some compromise measure desired by conferees of the senate and house.

Senator Robinson expressed his views following a conference of Democratic members of the senate at which the first moves in their tariff program were agreed upon. It was decided to propose consideration of administrative provisions, including the flexible tariff and valuation sections, ahead of rate schedules. The Democrat will seek the repeal of the flexible tariff and oppose the provisions contemplated an eventual adoption of a domestic valuation basis for duties.

Second Alliance Likely. Senator Simmons in offering his report said he would seek action upon it as soon as possible. He engaged in a discussion with Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] indicating a likelihood that the Democrats favoring the Simmons resolution and the radicals favoring the somewhat broader Blaine resolution, introduced yesterday, would be able to reach an alliance.

The Simmons resolution directs the finance committee to request the secretary of the treasury to furnish "a statement for each of the taxable years, 1922 to 1928, inclusive, of the profits or losses of the taxpayers . . . whose products or manufactures . . . are in the opinion of the committee, or of the majority or minority members thereof, affected by the pending tariff legislation."

Robinson Sees Long Delay.

Senator Robinson in announcing the secretaries of the treasury a statement of profits and losses as shown in corporation income tax returns filed by tariff beneficiaries.

Final action on the bill is hardly to be expected prior to the beginning of the regular session," he said. "Although there is no disposition on the part of the minority to delay longer than necessary for fair and full consideration."

"While I am not confident, it seems probable that the senate may exhaust debate on amendments late in October. Considerable difficulty is likely to be encountered in conference and there appears to be some probability that no agreement may be reached which can pass the senate even in the regular session."

Attacks Hoover's Shift.

Senator Robinson assailed President Hoover's shift policy.

The proposal for consideration of administrative provisions will be presented to the senate by Senator Simmons on Monday. It was made evident that Senator Robinson himself will take the lead in a move for the repeal of the flexible tariff.

Many of us feel that the present law giving the President authority to increase or reduce duties 50 per cent should be repealed," said Senator Robinson. "Consequently we are strongly opposed to any plan which would expand or enlarge executive tariff making."

The minority members, Senator Robinson said, have not taken a position as yet on the Thomas resolution for a limitation of the revision to agricultural products.

Gang Robs Realty Concern on South Side; Locks Up 3

Three men yesterday afternoon robbed the John Zagar & Co. real estate office, 2400 Wentworth avenue, of $500 in cash and $400 in negotiable checks after forcing Joseph Polak, 2401 Wentworth avenue, the manager, and George Zank, 2709 West 19th street, to open the office safe. While the robbers were in the office Pasko Sos, 15 years old, employed in a nearby grocery, walked in with a $5 bill to get change. The bill was placed with the other money and the boy locked in a back room with the two real estate men while the bandits escaped.

OF INSTITUT MARCEL PEZZA

In Naples, in the olive country, this olive oil soap is a favorite in beauty culture.

Signor ARMANDO PEZZA, head of the most celebrated beauty salon in Southern Italy, is eloquent on the subject of lovely complexions and how to attain them. "If women only knew it, the simplest, easiest way to beauty is to keep the skin perfectly cleansed."

"Powder, dirt and rouge penetrate right into the pores of the skin, and unless care is taken to remove all these tiny particles of waste matter daily, blemishes are certain to result," he says.

"I always advise my clients to cleanse the skin thoroughly by using Palmolive—which is composed of a secret blend of pure palm and olive oils and is thus one of the most valuable aids known to specialists in the care of the skin."

Signor Pezza is beauty advisor to the most aristocratic women of Naples and his salon is "as fine as any Paris establishment," American women of fashion agree. He advises a treatment known the world over: Massage Palmolive lather into the skin for two minutes, rinse, first with warm water, then with cold until the water is icy... and you are ready for make-up.

$262,000,000. Of this amount, $127,000,000—or over $2 per cent—is represented by first mortgage bonds or first and refunding mortgage lines. The interest on these mortgages at present is about $7,000,000 per year against the present net earnings of about $14,000,000, after deducting compensation to the city. The present ratio is therefore about two to one. The first mortgage bonds have a weighted average coupon rate of approximately 5.1 per cent. They are now selling on the open market at an average price of less than $80; in other words, on a basis which yields a return of 6.47 per annum upon the present market price.

The junior securities, totaling about $125,000,000, are said to be in worse shape.

"It must be remembered" says the companies "that street railway securities are now in such disfavor with investors throughout the country, that the companies had been requested to present a financial structure for the new company. They did not present one, but they did discuss finances at length. After a review of the twenty-eight different kinds of securities involved in the $262,137,95.46 capitalization of the Surface lines, the statement is:

"The foregoing will indicate that the matter of dealing with the existing securities is a complicated and difficult one at best. It is certain that the formation of a detailed financial plan, providing for the adjustment of these various equities, the allotment of the securities and the placing of the acceptance of the plan by the several interests, is a problem the solution of which will require ability, patience and no inconsiderable time."

"Instead of twenty-eight different kinds of securities there should, if possible, be only a few—not to exceed five or six."

Tell of Their Difficulties.

Regarding some of the difficulties, the companies said:

"We start with a capital of about

the same latitude and opportunities

as the city of Chicago."

Outline Refinancing Task.

The task of the companies is to refinance the $127,000,000 in first mortgage bonds and the $125,000,000

in junior securities and then, in the next ten years, find investors "who will purchase new securities to an amount of not less than $200,000,000."

"This means" says the statement,

"that the new company must compete in the money markets of this country with all other utilities and all other businesses which are seeking funds each year in excess of $200,000,000."

"The company is placed on a parity with other utilities and other industries seeking funds for expansion.

It is a cold certainty that the company will not be able to obtain the vast amounts of new money imperatively needed by Chicago for development of its transportation needs.

"It should therefore be perfectly clear to all persons that the first problem is not to be in a financial straitjacket and placed on a bread and water diet if the success and stability of the enterprise is to be assured. The new company should have the same latitude and opportunities

as the city of Chicago."

NEED FOR GULF WATERWAY SEEN AT BUSY PORTS

Michigan Lake Cities Are for Project.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Holland, Mich., Sept. 5.—(Special.)—Water borne commerce, outside of car ferries, has almost doubled in seven years at the east shore Lake Michigan ports from St. Joseph to Muskegon, Mich. In 1927 the five ports of St. Joe, South Haven, Holland, Grand Haven, and Muskegon had a general vessel tonnage of 785,700 tons, valued at $61,789,000. In 1920 it was only 40,400 tons.

The car ferry tonnage at Grand Haven, Ludington, and Frankfort increased from 3,946,800 tons in 1920 to 4,832,600 tons in 1927, or 22 per cent.

Figures for 1928 are being compiled by the government now and unofficial data indicate the increase was sustained.

Producers and shippers are beginning to point to this growth of shipping as evidence of the economic benefits. Michigan towns and industrial communities stand to derive from a lakes to gulf waterway. Traffic is seeking bottoms in this region when a profit is shown for shippers, just as it is on the opposite coast.

Illinois Link Is Needed.

The ports now are landlocked so far as getting into the Gulf of Mexico is concerned. But the Illinois waterway will furnish the link needed to connect the Great Lakes with the Mississippi river and the waterway system into which the government already has spent or allotted $462,250,000 and put these lake ports on salt water in the gulf.

Curiously enough, Michigan is one of the six states fighting the diversion of Chicago of water sufficient to make the Illinois waterway navigable. But shippers, it seems, are beginning to take a new slant.

They are saying that so far Michigan has heard only one side of the case. For years political propagandists have been shouting that water levels at Chicago are pulling down lake levels, ruining harbors and destroying shipping. Judging from talks with some of Holland's citizens, propagandists have sought to leave the impression that Chicago is doing nothing in building sewage disposal plants and that a portion of the water is being taken to raise the Chicago diversion instead of through the turbines of a Niagara Falls hydro-electrical combine. In addition to these distortions, the lake level item has been stressed.

Want Water Drawn Off.

Meanwhile the economic aspects of the lakes to gulf waterway hardly have received mention.

The lake levels argument founders in four feet of extra high water. This season, with beaches depressed, wharves inundated, property damaged, one hundred citizens expressing a fervent wish that Chicago would draw off two or three feet from the lake.

Macatawa, which a couple of decades ago was one of the most popular and fashionable resorts on the Lake Michigan, has had its beach ruined, houses washed into the mouth, Ottawa Beach, which has vast expanses of sand, but Macatawa is a spectacle to make old resorters weep.

Black lake, which is almost surrounded by summer resorts, cottages, and homes, has sustained great damage. Boat houses are half under water, docks are sagging on the surface, and the water has destroyed banks and lawns. At the Holland Country club the golf course was partly under water, early in the season and golfers needed oars and oar tongs to fish for lost balls.

Oil Argument Wrecked.

"The damnable lie about irreversibility," says Charles Kirchen, president of the West Michigan Furniture company. "It has tended to wreck the old argument that Chicago was lowering lake levels. We'd be glad if Chicago would draw off a couple of feet right now."

"I'm for the lakes to gulf waterway, but it has its larger aspects, the great benefit it will prove for the country. Water borne tonnage is growing. It shows the tendency back to water transport for certain bulk commodities. I see nothing but good in the development of our inland waterways."

"We need both waterways, the St. Louis to gulf waterway, which will connect the lakes with the north Atlantic, and the lakes to gulf waterway, which will open the great lakes to the Mississippi river and the gulf of Mexico, and the countries of South America. So far as dimensions for navigation are concerned, my view is that these matters are best left to the expert engineers."

Holland, with a population of 16,500, and a Dutch atmosphere of which it boasts, has a wide variety of industries. They embrace furniture, furniture, glass, radios, shoes, leather, circles and many other lines, about 35 all told.

The people have a reputation for thrift, 90 per cent own their homes, the three banks have resources of $11,000,000, and the annual volume of business done by the industries is estimated at around fifty million dollars. The general vessel traffic for 1927 was 1,200 in the ports from St. Joseph to Muskegon is shown by government reports as follows:

MASON & HAMLIN

The finest piano
in all the world

YOU'LL find the Mason & Hamlin where rich, deep rugs abound, and noble ancestors look down from oves marble mantels.

Smartly gowned women linger over its ivory keys. Men of affairs find relaxation under the spell of its rich sonorous tones. Authors and artists pause, as if to gather inspiration from its notes.

And too, you'll find this aristocrat of pianos in other scenes, where sacrifice of many luxuries has made possible the achievement of one towering ambition... to own the finest piano in all the world... and incidentally the costliest.

What is there about this superb piano that makes it prized above all others?... Craftsmanship that moves unhurriedly at its beloved task... Zeal and enthusiasm that put the achievement of an ideal above all else... Skill that is given only to hands that have become veterans in building so well that better is hardly possible.

These are some of the reasons why Mason & Hamlin is supreme among pianos... a treasure for any home.

Will this finest of all pianos become a beloved member of your family?

Mason & Hamlin in the ebonized Model A is only $1650, which means $165 is all that is necessary for the first payment. Three years for the balance will be gladly extended, and a generous allowance made for your present instrument, no matter what it make. With the Ampico, in mahogany, the Mason & Hamlin is $3150.

THE MISSISSIPPI GOES DRY.

There is not enough water in the Mississippi river to float standard barges from St. Louis to New Orleans. The enemies of Chicago and the Mississippi valley have won their fight and they ought to celebrate their victory. Wheat for export cannot be loaded at St. Louis and the cotton and sugar of the south cannot be loaded at New Orleans on barges bound for the consuming centers in the north. The central states which, for more than a century, have dreamed of a cheap route to the sea have been deprived of even a section of their waterway.

Engineers know that the problem of maintaining a channel the year round in the Mississippi river is, in reality, no problem at all. A temporary increase in the flow from Lake Michigan in the months of drought would solve all the difficulties. There need to be no increase in the amount of water taken from Lake Michigan over a period of a year. There are months together when the diversion at Chicago could be reduced to little or nothing.

The Mississippi waterway is dead of thirst, exactly as its enemies wished it to be, though they did not say so bluntly before the Supreme Court. Nevertheless they were jubilant at the court's finding because it did not recognize specifically the requirements of the Mississippi waterway in laying down the principles upon which the diversion is to be permitted.

The Mississippi waterway can be restored to life and given a new usefulness as soon as the various branches of government concerned can be made to answer to the cry of the central states for relief in transportation. Lake Michigan is a limitless reservoir. The withdrawal of water for the drainage canal has been going on, now, for nearly thirty years, and the lake is higher today than it was the day the canal was opened. The waterway will remain of no value at all in the season of crop movement, when it is most needed, until the states which are directly concerned in the success of the route force their rights from a reluctant and indifferent government.

MORE APOLOGETIC AMERICANS.

A thousand American delegates to the world advertising convention in Berlin lately heard Lord Riddell, leader of the British delegation to the congress, announce that our tariff and debt collection policies ought to be reversed. Likewise our federal reserve board, he said, ought to give more attention to the needs of European commerce and finance. The apologetic reply of Mr. H. V. Kaltenborn of Brooklyn may be taken as typical of the American response to the address.

Mr. Kaltenborn thanked his lordship for "giving us the keynote of peace." The true American attitude was to be detected in the Kellogg peace pact, forced upon reluctant American statesmen by the pressure of American business men. He feared that our European friends will still, on occasion, be disappointed us. "It takes time to win the average freshwater congressman" to Lord Riddell's point of view, etc., etc.

Lord Riddell seems to have hypothesized our business men as the publicity he regulated at the Washington conference had distracted public opinion and politicians in this country. The American reply need not have been unfriendly. It might have taken the form of a polite expression of willingness to examine the points raised. Instead, it took the form of an abject apology, as if the United States government owed a duty to England and the rest of Europe superior to the duty of carrying out the policies which the American people have indorsed time after time. Mr. Kaltenborn can hardly have forgotten that the Republican party and Mr. Hoover stand pledged to collect the debts and revise sections of the tariff upward. Certain freshwater congressmen from points west of Brooklyn may be pardoned, we believe, for daring to hold those pledges of more account than the wishes of Lord Riddell.

Lord Riddell says that our policies of protecting American industry and collecting the debts are mutually antagonistic. He holds with the British school of economists that the debts can be paid only in goods, services and gold. The argument goes that if through the tariff we exclude the goods and can give only a limited amount in return for services, we must be paid in gold. Though we do not need or want the gold, the loss of it will wreck European currencies and destroy European credit.

This position deserves examination. Aside from goods, gold and services, Great Britain might settle a good many millions of dollars of her debt by transferring to us her West Indian possessions, which do her no good but threaten our communications through the Panama canal. The United States would pay well for the islands. The investment of billions of American dollars in foreign securities postpones indefinitely the transfer of the capital amounts due on the books. The transfer of the interest presents no comparable problem. Indeed, through refunding these loans or reinvestment in other enterprises abroad, the transfer of the sums may be postponed in perpetuity.

Lord Riddell has painted a black picture of the European situation. It is a picture different at every point from that drawn by Joseph Caillaux, former premier of France, an economist and financier of far greater experience even than his lordship. In the recent debate in the French chamber upon the ratification of the American debt, M. Caillaux predicted that the French debt by the end of the period of payment will seem as small and as unimportant in French economy as the indemnity of 1871 now appears. France already is rapidly on the road to becoming a creditor country. As the bulletin of the National City Bank of New York stated recently, France shortly will be losing more of her capital through the voluntary investment of French money abroad than through payment of the war debts. If American tariff and fiscal policies have left France in that situation, it is difficult to see what all the apologizing is about.

WHAT IS A POLITICAL AGREEMENT WORTH?

The British prime minister eloquently addressing the league of nations assembly remarks that "we must ask the military advisers to remember that there is just as much security in a political agreement as in a regiment of soldiers or a fleet of battleships." Mr. MacDonald is asking the military advisers, and the rest of us likewise, not to remember but to forget—to forget what human history has shown from its beginning.

Unless, of course, he means that a political agreement is worth just about as much as the army or navy back of it is worth, which from the context we gather he did not mean.

At any rate, whatever sentimentalists, especially the American variety, are disposed to believe as to the inherent worth of political agreements, we quite confidently predict that when Mr. Mac-

Donald's terms for limitation of the British sea power transpire they will not give evidence that his government has failed to remember what the British navy has been and is worth to the British people.

A ROAR FROM KANSAS.

The governor of Kansas has just let off a broadside against federal interference in state affairs. The most drastic invasion of the federal government in local government in the history of the nation is prohibition. Do we understand that Kansas is going west, or is his excellency engaged in the classicfeat of straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel?

THE SLOW DRIVER.

Commissioner Boutil of the county board advocates a highway regulation which we think experienced motorists will agree would expedite the movement of traffic and be an important safety measure.

His plan would clear the inside lanes on wide roads for the exclusive use of vehicles as they pass one another. The procedure would be restricted to the outside lanes. Delaware and Minnesota furnish precedents for the system.

The Boutil scheme has the virtue of routing the slow moving traffic along outside lanes without discrimination. Other proposed methods of regulating the slow driver would establish arbitrary standards of speed, below which the driver must keep to the shoulder of the road and above which he may use the inside lane. Obviously the difficulties of enforcing such a practice would be too great. But Mr. Boutil's arrangement would accomplish the same purpose and it could be easily enforced.

The idea that the slow driver is a road peril is a new conception in the traffic problem. Heretofore he has been the model of the highway and he has been considered the only one in step. But speed, within reasonable limits, is no longer vicious, and the convenience of the fast driver is now important. The right of the motorist who travels at thirty-five, forty or even more miles an hour to a roadway as unobstructed as possible is now appreciated. His freedom of movement should not be curtailed by the blockade of a vehicle traveling at less than twenty-five miles an hour.

The use of the center of the road by slow motorists gives the fast driver three alternatives. He may pass to the left, in which case he may be the victim of a car approaching from the opposite direction. He may pass to the right. In that event, if he is involved in an accident, he is legally responsible. Or he may stay behind the slow driver. Therefore the great volume of traffic, which is disposed to move at a fast clip, is either impeded or delayed by the occasional slow driver, who could just as well be traveling the outside lane. This inefficient and dangerous use of the highways would be substantially corrected, we believe, by the adoption of Mr. Boutil's plan.

Editorial of the Day

NO WORLD'S FAIR WANTED.

[N. Y. Evening Post.]

Until we read this morning the news that the projected for a New York world fair in 1932 is now formally abandoned, we had believed it both dead and buried. With some surprise we learn that it is to be "postponed until 1935," in order to give Chicago a fair field for the 1932 exposition by which it is to celebrate the 100th anniversary of its incorporation as a city. The New York fair was to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

We cannot agree with the anti-climactic statement of Secretary Seal of the Community Councils that "to permit the anniversary of Washington to pass without the exposition would merit for us the obliquity and derision of posterity; it would be a black eye." New York does not want a fair in 1932 or 1935 either.

World's fairs have had their day. To have one in this overcrowded city would be a nuisance and an outrage.

On this platform we are willing to stand and receive all the "obliquity and derision and black eyes" that posterity sees fit to give us. Chicago may have all the fairs she wants. New York will help them and enjoy them, but New York hasn't the least desire to imitate them.

THE CONUNDRUM.

A clergyman is in the habit of repeating his sentences several times to enable the congregation to grasp their meaning. On one occasion he came to the words: "Who was John the Baptist?"

He brought them out slowly and distinctly, and then repeated them. After glancing around the church he once more repeated the words. "Who was John the Baptist?"

To his surprise, a scedy looking individual at the back of the church shifted to his feet and remarked, "Look here, guv'nor, I know there's a catch somewhere; but come on, who was he?"—Tit-Bits, London.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual cases.

FOOT AND LEG DISORDERS.

R. CHARLES OGILVY gives the following advice to mothers whose small children have foot and leg disorders:

Footwear—In general sneakers should be condemned. Above all, don't let children go barefoot without risk of harm. It is significant that more children complain of weak, painful feet and fatigue due to foot disorders in September, after the summer camps, than in any other season. He recommends strong sport shoes for wear in the voluntary investment of French money abroad than through payment of the war debts. If American tariff and fiscal policies have left France in that situation, it is difficult to see what all the apologizing is about.

AT SUNDOWN.

A LINE OF TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

222

There'll be times when you'll remember—
Times when you will long for me;
In the moonlight—in the starlight—
In the sunlight by the sea.

There will come a breath of perfume,
Or a song from out the south;
And you'll feel my arms about you
And my kiss upon your mouth.

Then your heart will ache to know me.
For a moment you will know
Pain and loneliness, remembering
That one day you loved me so.

LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT.

Yale has interviewed people all over the place trying to find out what irritates us humans most of all. Twenty-one thousand replies said they were most peevish by hearing a mosquito when trying to go to sleep. "Shucks! That never makes us mad. The sound a mosquito makes when he is trying to go to sleep makes us happy. If he can't himself to sleep with his own music we always chime in and sing some soothing lullaby. It's the sound that a mosquito makes when he is waking up or taking his exercises or getting ready to stab somebody that annoys us much more than the sound he makes when trying to go to sleep.

WE DO WISH congress would get in session pretty soon. There's only one news coming from the seat of government these days, and while we have the kindest regards for Secretary of State Stimson's billy goat, at the same time we would like to hear about something else now and then. Not that it would be more important than Secretary Stimson's goat, but just by way of variety. Goats are really fearfully boring after you read about them for days and weeks.

Concern Best Dressed Wimmen.

L. LOOYVILL, KY's got the best dressed and prettiest wimmen in town to say that, girls, because it is only natural to think Chicago has the prettiest and best dressed wimmen and if I ain't a diplomat I ain't nothing and if you are at all sensitive do not go to looyvill because even after you will live and die a broken woman which is the same as gnawing your crust and havin' it too and you can say that about cake. The wimmen of Chicago are indeed very beautiful and extremely well dressed but Chicago is after all what new york says it is and again I say one must be a diplomat to get along in this world, mustn't one? When you gotta guy down smack him in the jaw so please let me up and I will go on and say that the wimmen of looyvill are a way you sight better lookin and dressed than the femmes that bloom and roll in fittin avs which as you know is only in new york and I guess that thowm poland darts are the best dressed wimmen in town which is, I guess, great comfort to every one concerned and a diplomat is one who knows how to make everybody feel good and . . . hey, there! Who three that sugar bowl?

TO CHASE RINGWORMS.

L. W. W. writes: For ringworm of the toes get a bottle of carbolic acid. Soak the toes in soap and warm water. Scrub brush enough to open every blister and the skin is about gone from the sore part. Rinse well and apply a good strong solution of carbolic acid and water. It should be strong enough to turn the sores white and to smart a little. This burns through the two joints but does not burn to the bone. Rub again. Apply any suphr. oil or camphor oil to a cotton base, although plain vaseline will do. One treatment may be enough, but if all the parasites are not killed with the first treatment the blisters will come again after a time and the treatment will need to be repeated. The slight burn in the sores heals quickly and easily. The day following the first treatment one finds the skin a brown color instead of red and sore looking. This is a sure cure and a very easy treatment to use. Of course soaps and stockings must be kept clean. I used absorbent cotton dressing on the sore at all times.

REPLY.

This may not be as effective on the toes as it is in ringworm elsewhere. If the acid is too strong it will burn the skin. One must be very careful when applying the acid to the toes. Just as fast as we get conscious about one thing another one bobs up. Life gets more complex every day.

WONDER WHAT IT'LL DO NEXT?

Ah, although we have been complaining with a touch of bitterness about the Fourth of July weather, everything was different yesterday when November suddenly dropped down on us. November on the fifth day of September is quite a novelty. But cheer up; Chicago weather is capable of anything, and this morning it will probably be June. Gosh, this thing must get the birds all mixed up; one day they are making tracks for Canada and the next day hitting the pike for the Gulf of Mexico.

MAYOR ENTERS JUDICIAL FIGHT; OPPOSES JONAS

Supports Crowe in Effort to Control Choice.

For the first time this year, Mayor Thompson was reported yesterday as manifesting a personal and active interest in local politics. It was said by well informed friends that he had put his foot down on the proposal to include Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jones as a candidate for the Superior bench on a coalition ticket.

The fight against Judge Jones is believed to have been started by Judge E. Crowe, former state's attorney, the minute he returned from his summer home in the Eagle river country last Tuesday. But the attack was not considered extremely serious until it became known that the attorney not only supported the former prosecutor's position, but was showing an even greater amount of indignation over the preference shown for Judge Jones.

Reminded of 1927 Campaign.

"Some one got to the mayor," ran the yarn, "and reminded him that Edgar Jonas was one of the principal speakers for Dr. John Dill Robertson when the former state's attorney was up in Lundin in 1927 to cut the Thompson vote with the hope of selecting Mayor Dever. That was all that was needed to start Thompson issuing orders."

This gives the Republicans at least two hurdles to pass on their end of the coalition bargain, for the Chicago Bar association and the state legislature were the only ones out of the race as effectively as Thompson is said to have disposed of Judge Jonas. The association refused its verdict of "qualified" to Municipal Judge George A. Corran and to Attorney Eugene D. Sullivan, leaving the slate makers the task of finding another west sider who may have better fortune.

Therefore as matters now stand the Republicans have only half of their slate, state, left. State Senator Arthur A. Hirsch, as the entre of the country towns, and Henry T. Chase, the choice of R. W. Snow and other south side leaders, were both approved by the lawyers' organization.

Barrett fails to meet Igoe.

But Charles V. Barrett, chairman of the steering committee created by the friends that control the county committee and therefore the nominating convention, and his associates showed little sign of worrying. Mr. Barrett returned to the city and it was expected that during the day contact would be established between him and State Representative Michael L. Igoe, chairman of the conference subcommittee of the Democratic organization, but they failed to meet.

This leisurely attitude, it was said, was due to the fact that the leaders believe they will have plenty of time to work out their difficulties, since both conventions will merely come to order today and then recess to some day next week the Democrats until Wednesday evening. It was probable the Republicans will postpone their session until the next day, as it is customary to hold the two sessions when a coalition deal is on.

In the meantime Mr. Barrett was calmly but emphatically telling a series of interviewers that the situation was unchanged in spite of the Democratic attitude expressed at a Wednesday night meeting.

No Change in Attitude.

"We stand just where we stood before," he said and reported his previous statement that the Democrats had not succeeded in forcing the Republican majority to grant the Deenen membership on the steering committee.

"I fail to see what right any Democrat or Democrat has to demand that the Republican organization shall put on its committee," he said. "We made what we considered an honest coalition agreement with the representatives of the Democrats and we will consider it binding."

Boys, 9 and 12, Held for Drowning Playmate, Age 11

New York, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two boys were accused today of causing the death by drowning of their chum, Louis Sereno, aged 11, in a Central Park lake. James Miranda, 9, and Michael Rivera, 12, who are under arrest, are charged to have pushed Louis into shallow water, after he had told them he could not swim.

FIND LEGISLATOR ON CITY PAY ROLL AT $4,500 YEARLY

A. O. Galvin an Aid of Ettelson.

The name of A. O. Galvin, state representative from the 27th district, Chicago, was found yesterday on Corporation Counsel Ettelson's pay roll, the records showed as an assistant corporation counsel at a salary of $4,500 a year. The discovery was pointed out as in line with the evidence uncovered by the Loesch grand jury last year, which showed that the city hall administration made a practice of rewarding faithful servants from the public treasury.

Galvin's present service to the city hall, according to the aldermen, was the introduction of house bill No. 46 at the last session of the legislature. This measure, which was passed, reduced Chicago's tax rate from $1.12 1/2 to $1.07 1/2 on each $100 of assessed valuation for the current year.

but increased it from $0.92 1/2 to $1.07 1/2 for the years 1930 and 1931. It was explained that the tax rate would have dropped to the lowest figure automatically at the end of this year had not the Galvin bill been passed. The result was that the taxpayers received a reduction of five cents in the rate for this year, but they were prevented from obtaining a further reduction of fifteen cents for the next two years.

On City Pay Roll Before.

Galvin, who lives at 970 Milwaukee avenue, has been on the corporation counsel's pay roll previously, according to the records. He was receiving a stipend from the city before attending the last session of the legislature at Springfield. He will draw $187.50 for the two week period ending Aug. 22.

A few months ago Ettelson discharged 77 employees, declaring that he had not sufficient funds to carry them throughout the year. Inquiry shows that some of the old faces have returned, while others have been replaced permanently, as the Galvin case is said to show.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—(AP)—With a roar that drew all eyes skyward 19 planes from the first pursuit squadron of the United States army at Selby field, Mich., flew over Toronto today in a flight to the national games here to participate in Aviation day at the Canadian national exhibition. Today's visit was the second made by the United States squadron to Toronto. Last year they were the guests of the exhibition officials and local aeroclub.

Heat Retards Edison's Recovery from Pneumonia

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 5.—(UPI)—The extreme heat of the last few days has retarded the recovery of George A. Edison here, Frank Shell, vice president of the Edison Industries, reported today. The inventor has been confined to bed with pneumonia almost two weeks. Shell today said that Edison rested quietly in the past 24 hours, but that the weather seems to have slightly retarded improvement.

STILL EXPLODES, WRECKS HOUSE; OWNER SOUGHT

Firemen answering an alarm at a house at 5547 Higgins avenue last night found the rear end of the two room building blown out and the house partly wrecked by the explosion of a still, galvanic still. Police and the Irving Park station were called. Charles Arnold, 4618 North Kestling avenue, said to be the owner of the building, to question him about the ownership of the still.

The house was uninhabited, but at the front window police found one chair with cigarettes butts strewn about it, though one of the distillers had kept a state of the seat. Charles Egan said the still had been used to distill commercial alcohol for beverage purposes.

Three men, believed to be the still operators, were seen leaving the house as fire apparatus drove up. Arnold is employed by Morand Brothers, 324 South May street, bottlers.

JUDGE EXPOSES DRY'S TRICKERY IN U. S. COURTS

Tells How Convictions Are Secured in Michigan.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 5.—[Special]—Strange methods by which citizens may be convicted of prohibition law violations in federal courts on evidence rejected by state courts were described today at the Michigan Association of Circuit Judges' convention here by Judge J. H. Collins of the Shiawassee-Livingston circuit.

Judge Collins was requested by the convention to present a communication for this year's meeting to investigate and report on this situation. His remarks today indicated that he found a distortion of the machinery of justice in the interest of prohibitionists.

Technically Used in Prosecutions.

State officers frequently make raids without warrants or with warrants which are imperfectly drawn, and persons arrested under such circumstances are freed by state courts, as the procedure is obviously without legal sanction, Judge Collins said. The officers, however, may take such evidence into the federal courts and secure convictions, he asserted.

This is possible, the judge said, because the federal constitutional restriction on search and seizure applies only to federal officers and agents. Providing federal officers had no hand in obtaining evidence of this sort, it is admissible in the federal courts and prosecutions may be based thereon.

Any Home May Be Entered.

Judge Collins cited a case in which a liquor law violator was discharged by a state court because evidence was obtained illegally. He was rearrested and taken, with the same evidence, into federal court, where he was convicted and sentenced. The defendant carried the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals, where the lower federal court's action in accepting the evidence was upheld, because it was shown that federal officers had had nothing to do with obtaining the evidence.

It was pointed out following Judge Collins' statement that where federal drys are able to obtain the full cooperation of state officers the sanctity of the home may be violated with impunity, as raids may be made without warrants and any evidence obtained may be turned over to federal officers for prosecution.

VOLLMER MAY BE POLICE EXPERT ON CRIME COMMISSION

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special]—August Vollmer, chief of police of Berkeley, Cal., has been selected as police expert for the Hoover law enforcement commission and is now engaged in the collection of police data for the commission, it was announced today.

Chief Vollmer, nationally known for his use of scientific methods in the selection of policemen and the detection of criminals, was given an indefinite leave of absence by the Berkeley city administration.

Vollmer, in addition to serving as chief of police of Berkeley for nearly a quarter of a century, has assisted in the reorganization of police departments in a number of American cities, including Los Angeles, Cal., San Diego, Calif., Denver, Colo., Kansas City, Mo. In 1925 he was commissioned by the Cuban government to direct the reorganization of the Havana metropolitan police force.

PLAN TO SHIFT DRY LAW BUREAU HALTS IN SENATE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special]—Passage of the Jones resolution creating, in accordance with Senator Hoover's suggestion, a joint congressional committee to study the feasibility of vesting complete responsibility for prohibition enforcement in the department of justice, was balked in the senate today by Senator Glass (Dem., Va.).

The Virginia senator asserted that, following the failure of congress to act upon the resolution before the present special session recessed early in the summer an interdepartmental investigation of the proposal was undertaken and he protested against the creation of a congressional committee to cover the same ground.

Senator Glass reiterated that if the President believed that prohibition enforcement activities should be centralized in the justice department he should openly recommend the necessary legislation in a message to congress.

"My husband was the subject of a brutal assault," she said. "He was shot and there was no liquor in the car driven by Keller and none of the party had been drinking. Keller did not carry a pistol, but a pistol which was left in the car was seized by the deputies after Keller had been slain.

Clothing Powder Burned.

These are facts of the case as Mrs. Keller tells them. And as mute testimony of the closeness of the pistol to Keller's body when it was fired are the powder burns on her husband's bloodstained clothes.

"Why should I lie about it?" she asked brokenly. "Nothing I can say will bring him back and I can't help him or myself by telling anything but the truth."

The party of four—the Kellers and Lowell and his wife—were picnicking at Fairhope. Their children had come over to the town on a large truck and were not with their parents.

"We were hunting for a place to stop," she said. "It was about 4 in the afternoon when we got near the beach and saw those three men. Jake was driving and he said, 'That looks like those deputies, and they look like they are following us!'

Struck by Deputy.

"Well, let's drive around and stop," I told him. "We haven't got anything."

The man had just pulled up to where we were going to have our picnic when the car with these men drove up. The man Henderson leaped to the running board of our car. He brought his pistol down on my husband's head. He did not say a word before he hit my husband.

Keller jumped from the car and the other occupants followed him, according to Mrs. Keller.

"What are you trying to do?"

"Henderson did not say a word,"

she continued, "but pointed his pistol at me and said, 'Do you want to live or die?'"

"I told the sheriff then, 'We might just as well turn around and go back home. He's dead.'

"'Aw, he ain't dead,' they told me.

"Just before we got to the Bay bridge, his head dropped lower and I said, 'Why didn't you tell me to stop?'"

CHIEF SLAIN IN LEAVING STRIKE COLONY, AID SAYS

Witness Asserts Officers Were Departing.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—A man who had been "deputized" to accompany Police Chief O. F. Aderholt to the tent colony of the Loray Textile mill strikers on the night of June 7, testified this afternoon in the trial of sixteen strikers and strike leaders charged with murder. He said that when he left the colony the next day the strikers were fired at by the police chief.

A. J. Roach, former Gastonia police officer, who accompanied the officers when they went to investigate reports of trouble at the colony, testified that a guard had tried to stop them when they entered the grounds occupied by strikers, that four men inside the mill had drawn abominations on him when he went to the door, and that men, women and children had cried out, "Shoot them! Shoot them!" as they were walking away.

Then followed the salvo of shots from knotholes inside the building, he said. After he was shot down, he turned and fired his pistol once before a second load knocked the pistol out of his hand and he lost consciousness.

The defense attacked Roach on cross-examination, asserting it was trying to show Roach and another officer were drunk on the afternoon of the shooting and that they were still drunk that night.

Wheel Plaster Cast Into Court.

The most dramatic moment of the day came early in the morning. While Dr. H. R. McConnell, the first witness, was on the stand a life sized figure, shrouded in a black drap, was trundled into the courtroom at the request of Solicitor John G. Carpenter. It was halted where everyone could see it, and defense attorneys began a chorus of objections.

The shroud was removed, and there, clad in the dead man's blood spotted clothes, wearing his slouch hat, and strapped with his "Sam Brown" belt, was a likeness of the police chief in plater of Paris cast.

Defense attorneys continued their protest. They agreed to admit into the evidence that the dead man had been wounded, and Judge M. V. Barnard ordered the figure carted from the room. Dr. McConnell, however, introduced some important testimony later without the aid of the figure, showing that the police chief's wounds had all been in the back.

Colony Neighbor Testifies.

Guards posted around the colony tested the colony for any one who intended to bring any one caught entering the ground to Fred Erwin Beal, strike leader, Otto Mason, who lives next door to the colony, testified.

This order was given by Beal the night of June 9 when Aderholt and three other policemen were wounded, the chief dying the next day.

Mason said he could hear a speaker at a meeting of strikers that night. Beal, he said, told the strikers that "mill things and stool pigeons have come down to raise trouble and we aren't going to have it. I want guards to look around and if they catch any one I want them to bring them to me. What we will do won't be good for them."

A globet line to go to the Loray mill of the Manville-Jancks company, where a strike had been called two months before by the National Textile Workers union, was then formed, Mason testified. Beal told the strikers to go to the mill.

Mason said he saw two guards, both armed with shotguns, walking regular beat.

Lot Ordered Cleared.

The witness testified that Miss Vera Brown of New York, one of the defendants, spoke to the strikers and told them to go to the mill. Beal then ordered the lot cleared and the guards to take charge. The crowd went toward the mill and Beal put out the lights on the lot. A few minutes later, he said, several officers rode up on horseback and cleared the lot.

Witnesses

Heads of the colony, including the chief, were present.

BRIDE, 24, WINS ANNULMENT ON KIDNAP CHARGE

Forced Into Marriage, She Tells Judge.

Mrs. Jane Behrens, 24 years old, 547 Adams street, yesterday won an annulment of her marriage to Herbert Behrens, a draftsman before Circuit Judge Frank P. Murphy. Mrs. Behrens, a pretty blonde, charged that she had been kidnapped from the suitor of her choice, plied with liquor, and forced into marriage.

Mrs. Behrens said that she was engaged to Raymond Pauley, a clerk, when she met Behrens in 1927. Behrens, an expert in persistent courtship, which could not be encouraged by repeated and positive refusals of his proffers of marriage, she said.

Persistent in Courtship.

"I knew him for less than a year," she told the judge. "He would come to the house and come in when Raymond wasn't around. After the first two months he proposed every time he saw me, sometimes as many as three times in an evening. I told him I didn't want to marry him, because I loved Raymond, whom I had known for seven years. This would not keep him away."

On May 5, 1929, Behrens came to the house and persuaded her to go for a ride. During the ride he persuaded her to take several drugged drinks, she averred.

"He told me that if he couldn't marry me Raymond never would," she added. "He forced me to take more liquor and I didn't sober any more of it until I woke up in a hotel with him the next morning. I jumped out of the room and came home."

Wants to Marry Again.

Her attorney, Julius H. Miner, explained that Behrens had procured a marriage license from Rockford, Ill., and took her before a Judge Carpenter of that city. Miner explained that Pauley is still willing to marry his client and she sought the annulment for that reason.

"You have my sympathy," the judge said as he ordered her attorney to prepare an order. "This is a most unfortunate case. I cannot understand why judge or any other officer, even by law, to perform a ceremony, would make a couple when one of them is obviously under the influence of liquor."

"Such officials, actuated by no other desire than to earn a pittance, bring unhappiness into many lives and clutter courts with similar cases. That is a terrible state of community, yet I understand that certain communities encourage marriages under even worse circumstances."

SACK MURDER VICTIM STILL UNIDENTIFIED; FIND CHICAGO WOMAN

The identity of the sack murder victim at Morris, Ill., was again veiled in mystery yesterday when an investigation showed that the body was not that of Mrs. Richard Shea, formerly of Chicago. Mrs. Shea was located in Washington, D. C., after a comparison of a chart of her teeth and those of the dead woman had been shown to her.

Shea, who has offices at 4 North Clark street, thought that the body might have been that of his wife and journeyed to Morris Wednesday. He made a partial identification and officials were hopeful that they were on the road to a solution of the mystery.

The body, crammed into a burial bag, was found last Monday on the state highway just outside the limits of Morris. Investigation indicated that the body of the elderly woman had been kept for some weeks in a state of refrigeration and then had been thrown from a passing automobile.

Jury to Try Mrs. Pantages

on Murder Charge Secured

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3.—Special. A jury of five women and seven men was passed by prosecution and defense tonight and tomorrow will begin sitting in judgment on the second charge of a charge against Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of the theater magnate. One woman and one man were chosen as alternate jurors.

Mrs. Pantages is accused of causing the death of Joe Rokumoto, Japanese shopkeeper, by driving into his automobile while she was intoxicated. Unless a legal hitch appears tomorrow morning, taking of testimony will begin at once.

Seek to Blame Operator.

Questioning of talents will begin outside the defense will begin when the defense was the result of an operation performed after the accident.

The state's rebuttal to this, Deputy District Attorney Harold Jones said, "would be that the accident made necessary the operation."

Judge Carlos Hardy suddenly halted proceedings during the questioning of talents and declared he wanted to know if any juror had a prejudice against a woman drinking intoxicating liquor. The judge told the main feeling against a woman taking a drink was not qualified to sit in judgment on the society woman defendant.

Judge Bars Rum Prodigy.

"In this case, testimony may show that the defendant had been drinking hard liquor," Judge Hardy said. "I want to know right here and now whether any of you would allow this fact to sway your verdict."

Mrs. Pantages shook her head to her attorney and Hardy was dismissed from the box.

Mrs. Pantages, in court, leaned heavily on the arms of her two young sons, Rodney and Lloyd.

Threat Story Discredited.

An investigation today failed to find any corroboration for the story of Mrs. Pantages' threat to sue the state for protection, claiming his life had been threatened because he declined to be a witness in the trial. He declared he had been approached with an offer of employment to testify.

And see the grand things—hurry before they are all gone—hurry, so you'll be properly outfitted for those exciting early Fall days—when you stage that important beginning of the new school year. Here are the clothes you'll simply love to wear, things made just for you, with a real view to your size and your taste. And perhaps the nicest thing about them is that they are clothes that Mother will readily approve for you, too.

BRIGHT frocks that go suitably to special afternoons at school or for gala days of shopping in town are among the smartest of the season for the younger set. That at the extreme left is of jersey with a contrasting collar, inset pleats and piping. In red, green, brown. 8 to 12 year sizes. $12.50.

Wool crepe makes the second frock—and it's one of the most popular materials in new youthful frocks. This little suit has a contrasting sleeveless blouse which buttons onto the skirt. Navy, green, red. 6 to 10. $11.50.

Hurry

YOU can't be expected to settle down to the business of study till the business of clothes is taken care of. Four-piece knicker suits are well tailored of all wool fabrics and include two pairs of knit grip knickers and a vest. Sizes 8 to 16 years. Priced at $25. Plus-four knickers in the new patterns of sturdy all-wool materials come in sizes 8 to 17 years at $3.75 pair.

Sweaters are needed in abundance in the school wardrobe. These are equally appropriate for sports wear, and are of all-wool yarn. Sizes 8 to 16 years, $5. Boys' caps which complete the outfit are $2.50 each.

FOR small brothers who are just beginning the school adventure, and those a little older, too, there are swagger knit outfits—sweaters of fine quality yarn, with bright stripes, and jersey shorts to match. Complete with a sleeveless waist at $5.75. Sizes 3 to 10 years.

Hurry

GIRLS' patent leather pumps or strap slippers, cut out at the sides and boasting a smart little buckle, are just the thing for the dress-up times that begin when school does. They have a medium low heel. $7.50 pair.

Boys' Scotch grain oxfords in black or tan, blucher style, are as smart as they are practical, and just the sort boys feel well dressed in wherever they go. They are trimmed in calf. Sizes 2 to 6, $5.50.

GIRLS' hosiery of fine cotton in $\frac{3}{4}$ lengths is trimmed with gaily patterned cuffs in the bright colors of fall. \$1 pair. Full length hosiery, in colorful all-over patterns, are fashioned of cotton and rayon, 75c pair.

Boys' heavy cotton hose, $\frac{7}{8}$ length, come in a large assortment of designs and color combinations, \$1 pair. Imported hose in cotton and wool mixture may be had in plain colors with patterned cuffs, \$1 pair.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 5.—Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, this morning called off this afternoon's scheduled game with the Cubs to make possible a double header tomorrow, and in the interim the Pirates reduced the Bruins' lead to 12½ games, by beating Cincinnati.

The scheme wasn't accepted with enthusiasm by the Cubs because it will mean two double headers in as many days, a double bill having been arranged for Brooklyn tomorrow at Wrigley Field Saturday. But Manager McCarthy is a sympathetic soul, and knows how poor Breadon is suffering these days, so he fell in with the plot to wheelie a few more paces out of the local natives through the bargain afternoon.

Breadon isn't exactly in need of sympathy, however, for his staggering club was paid some $25,500 for its share of the recent Labor Day stand in Chicago, a sum that in no way was accreted by the drawing power of the Cards, now engaged in a struggle to keep from plunking into the second division.

No St. Louis City Series.

Incidentally, Mr. Breadon now is more of a subject of conversation hereabouts than at any time since he gave himself the air in the winter of 1914.

Yesterday it was given out that there would be no St. Louis city series because Breadon had refused to accept the Browns' challenge on the ground the "public has had enough baseball."

Members of the Cardinal team, however, now say they refused to play the city series because Breadon presented a plan which would cut them out of a role in a state game on Saturday and a doubleheader on Sunday. They were to get their pickings, if any, on the day days, and, as a result, struck on the enterprise.

In connection with the calling off of today's game, it has been pointed out it would have been just as convenient to call off tomorrow's game in view of expected rain or snow and play it as part of a doubleheader to-day.

Malone, Blaik to Pitch. This would have given the Cubs a chance to get back to Chicago for rest at home before the opening of the invasion of eastern clubs. It would have been safer for Sam, because if it does actually rain tomorrow the two games simply will be off the schedule.

Malone and Blaik are scheduled to start in the games tomorrow.

BUCKS, 10; REDS, 5

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates completed their solution of the mystery of the season today by hammering the Cincinnati pitcher from the mound and winning their last game of the season in Cincinnati, 10 to 5. The victory, following one scored last Sunday, completely shattered the spell Lucas had held over the Cards since June, 1927.

Pitter Ervin Brane started the seven run rally that brought the Cards to a much victory in the third inning by scoring a home run into the right fielders.

It was followed by a single, three triples, two singles, and a wild throw.

Friend of Bush, DONIE BUSH, did say: "Donie is tired and wants to rest. His trip to Chicago was more or less incidental to his plans for the future, and definite. Bush likes baseball and hopes to stay with it. Just what he'll do next year, I do not know."

As for his own plans, Howley admitted the same indefiniteness.

Howley is regarded as a likely suc-

As for his own plans, Howley ad-

Prudential boy, no the thirty-sixth green, one up.

Little was one up at the end of the morning round and two up at the twenty-seventh hole. Outmet squared the match on the thirty-second and went into the lead on the next, holding it as they halved the last three holes.

EGAN VS. SWEETSER

Sweetser and Egan were square at the third hole, each with one under under as a result of birdies on the third. Sweetser sank a five foot putt for his birdie three, while Egan held out a three foot putt.

Egan took the fourth with a birdie, while Sweetser was in trouble at the start with his drive into a trap and his second shot, taking five. They halved the fifth in par and Sweetser evened the match on the sixth with a par, while Egan went one over. Egan's drive was out of bounds and he had to walk his tree and bounded out. Egan conceded the hole when his pitch was far short of the pin.

Egan sank a 15 foot putt to take the seventh with a birdie two. They halved the eighth in par fours after Sweetser made a great recovery from a trap. Egan missed the cup, while Sweetser was in the trap again on the ninth, while Egan dropped the cup on his pitch shot. Both two putted. Sweetser taking an extra stroke to go two down to Egan, held out in par.

They halved the tenth. On the eleventh, Egan held out in par, while Sweetser was in a trap on his second and a four foot putt for a half.

Both were in a trap on the twelfth, on their tee shots. Sweetser missed a putt and Egan stymied himself behind Sweetser, but chipped over his opponent's ball and held out in four to halve the hole.

After winning the thirteenth in par four, Egan held out in par four to halve the fifteenth in par fours.

Sweetser picked up two more holes on the final three of the round. He won the 18th, with par four. Sweetser took a five. They halved the 17th in fours and Egan bugged a birdie four on the 540 yard 18th by sinking an eight foot putt. Sweetser was on in three and took two putts for par.

EGAN GIVES SWEETSER UP

Egan and Sweetser halved the nineteenth in par fours. Sweetser was weak on a 15 foot putt, while Egan laid his third from off the green dead to the pin. They each made five birdie fours on the twentieth. Egan laying a long chip up on his third.

The twenty-first was halved in fives. The two-second and two-third were halved in fours, while the fourth and fifth respectively. Sweetser won back the twenty-fourth with a birdie four to Egan's six. It cut Egan's lead to two up.

They halved the 25th in fours, one over par, Egan missing a four foot putt for a win. Egan led by six up again when he birdied the twenty-sixth. His third foot down, he rolled out to the cup. Egan two-putted the twenty-seventh for a par four to become seven up. Sweetser was out of a ditch and over the hole.

Sweetser made a great bid for the hole, his thirty foot putt hitting the back of the cup and bouncing out.

himself. Mr. Jones is the perfect example of the modern champion, a modest, honest citizen who, far from impeding on his distinction, socially or otherwise, has always felt that it would have been better to stand out prominently in one of the learned professions.

Heretofore in sport is a subtle thing and this modesty is as much responsible for Bobby's public standing as his golf. In John L. Sullivan's day, the character of the champion was that of a noisy braggart, but today, the public believed in him.

BROKERS' LOANS EXPAND AGAIN, U. S. BANKS SAY

Credit Poured Into Stock Markets.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The largest increase in brokers' loans in many weeks, reported by the federal reserve board yesterday, was another check to stock market speculators. The effect was the more pronounced because it came just a day after the New York stock exchange's monthly report had shown a surprising expansion in borrowings of members.

The reserve board reported that the New York federal reserve member banks on Wednesday were lending $6,160,000 to brokers and dealers in securities. This marked an increase of $1,150,000 a week and pushed the total to another new high level. The current increase marked the third successive week of expansion and the two preceding weeks had shown gains almost as large. All told, brokers' loans have risen $462,000,000 in the last three weeks. The current total, moreover, stands $2,055,000,000 above a year ago.

The banks, particularly the New York institutions, were entirely responsible for the latest expansion in stock market credit. The New York banks had an additional $101,000,000 into the market, bringing their total to $14,000,000 more than a year ago. The interior banks furnished an additional $38,000,000 and now are lending $2,055,000,000 more than a year ago.

Corporations Lend Less.

On the other hand, corporations and other lenders reduced their loans by $1,000,000, probably because the corporations used their surplus funds to meet month-end interest and dividend payments and prepare for autumn bank expansion. However, this latter class of lenders now is furnishing loans at a rate more than a year ago and nearly 55 per cent of the total loan.

Perhaps it is significant that practically all of these stock market loans are "call money," which may be instantly withdrawn if rates or market considerations do not please the lenders. Demands loans now total $6,005,000,000, an increase of $2,821,000,000 in the last year, whereas time loans are $4,650,000,000, a decline of $240,000,000, a decline of 28 per cent.

In spite of the expansion in credit for speculative purposes, the weekly statement of the federal reserve system, issued last night, showed decidedly more credit made available for general purposes than in recent weeks. At the same time Secretary Mellon announced the September financing program of the treasury at lower interest rates than were offered in June.

Borrowings of the member banks now total $7,000,000, bringing the total up to $12,000,000. But the reserve banks increased their loans to bankers' acceptance and government securities by $24,425,000 and $1,555,000, respectively. Deposits increased $26,492,000 and note circulation mounted $55,180,000. Gold and total reserves declined $18,731,000 and $22,841,000, respectively. The ratio of reserves to liabilities fell to 73.2 per cent, compared with 74.4 per cent a week ago.

Borrowers Halt Unchanged.

The New York reserve bank again announced no change in its 6 per cent discount rate. Borrowings of member banks jumped $62,418,000 to a total of $803,268,000. The city banks increased their borrowings by $16,000,000. The reserve bank took an additional $26,714,000 of bankers' acceptance. Deposits expanded $23,164,000. Reserves dropped $54,506,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 70.7 per cent, compared with 77.4 per cent a week ago.

Utility Holding Concerns May Arrange Closer Union

New York, Sept. 5.—Reports were current in Wall street today that the Electric Bond and Share company and the American Super-Power corporation are considering a further affiliation of interests through exchange of stock. Combined assets of the two utility giants are nearly $1,000,000,000. It was generally believed that Electric Bond and Share would exchange its extensive holdings in such companies as American Gas and Electric, National Power and Light, American Power and Light, and Electric Power and Light for stock of the American Super-Power corporation. It was also reported, in other quarters, that these shares of American Super-Power new common will be exchanged for one share of Electric Bond and Share.

The treasury has about $300,000,000 in new issues on Sept. 15 and more than $214,000,000 in interest on the public debt, which will be paid out this month and in October.

Chain Systems Report Gains in August Sales

New York, Sept. 5.—(AP)—August sales of the F. W. Woolworth company amounted to $24,448,010, compared with $21,511,872 in August, 1928. Other chain store systems, making their monthly sales reports today, also show gains over August, 1928. Among them were the following:

210 Blast Furnaces in Operation on Sept. 1

New York, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Blast furnaces in operation in the United States on Sept. 1 numbered 210, or 65 per cent of the 325 available for iron making, and compares with 216, or 65 per cent active a month ago. Structural steel orders for the week ending Sept. 1 amounted to 26,000 tons, compared with 22,000 tons in the preceding week, and appearing in the market total 24,000 tons, against 55,000 tons.

Steam Plants Chief Producers of Electric Light and Power

BY SCRUTATOR.

Development of water power sources for electricity has proceeded at a good rate since 1918. But that year until the end of 1928 there was a twelve-month period in which less than one-third of the kilowatts generated in the United States came from the directed flow of water. Last year nearly thirty-five billion of a total of eighty-eight billion kilowatt hours came from this source, or 40 per cent.

For several reasons it appears likely, as Thomas Edison has predicted, that steam generating plants will play an increasingly important rôle and water power less important to the thinly settled sections in the west or the mountainous east.

The power streams or rivers, as they may be preferably called—they are constantly flowing in their periods of interconnection—are economical only where large numbers of people live in the areas where the power is developed.

The fixed cost involved in water power development is relatively large.

Besides, the government has a large part of the desirable sites for plants in its control.

Under the law the federal power commission can only lease to private concerns for a period of fifty years, the government reserving the right to recapture the sites and plants, or, in other words, to buy them, at the figure represented by the total investment made in them.

Would Dehydrate Values.

A policy of evaluating the properties of the various concerns to prevent not only the watering of capital, that larger rates may be obtained, but even to pare down the amounts charged for overhead services of all kinds generally rendered by holding companies.

This policy has been a matter of controversy for years, and with a proposal for federal regulation of inter-state power transmission looked for in the next congress the situation is anything but favorable for a marked increase of hydro-electric generation in the next few years.

Previous Stock Melon.

The company's common stock was increased in May, 1928, when the par value was changed from $100 to $120 to no par and the authorized common was increased from 1,850,000 to 7,400,000 shares, and the number of shares of no par for each of the old. There are outstanding 7,211,483 common shares, besides $4,282,400 in 6 per cent capital stock of $20 par value. Thus, an increase in the authorized common to 2,000,000 or more shares would be necessitated by the proposed split.

Whether or not the annual dividend rate would be increased by the proposed splitup was not indicated, though enough information followed the 1928 rate adjustment.

The stock has been giving regular cash payments of $4 a year and extra cash disbursements of $1 each twice a year, equivalent to a $8 basis.

The new stock might receive dividends at the annual rate of $1.50 a share with the possibility of occasional extras.

General Electric recently completed negotiations for acquisition of an additional large stock interest in German General American Investors, and the directors of the American company were named to the German company's board to strengthen ties of mutual interest.

Those named were Owen D. Young, Gerard Swope, Clarke M. Miller, Arthur Baldwin, and J. Edmonds.

Bank Dividend Increased.

The Chatham Phoenix National Bank and Trust company of New York announced an increase in the annual dividend rate to $20 a share, with the declaration of a quarterly of $5. This represents an increase of $4 a year, the company having paid $16 previously.

Besides the regular quarterly of $4, the Standard National bank will make a special disbursement of $5.

The first dividend payment on the new stock of Sparks Withington was declared in the form of 25 cents quarterly, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis, equal to $4 on the old stock, which paid $3. A 200 per cent stock dividend will be paid in July. A quarterly dividend of $4 a share was declared on the stock of the Cliffs corporation, equal to $4 annually.

An extra dividend of 50 cents a share was declared on the stock of the Jantzen Knitting Mills. The Coca Cola International corporation's common stock went on a $12 basis when the directors voted a par $3 instead of a $2 quarterly dividend.

Raised Dividend Rate.

The Chatham Phoenix National Bank and Trust company was placed on a $4 annual dividend basis today, an increase over the previous rate, when directors announced a quarterly dividend of $1 a share. The regular quarterly

GEN. ELECTRIC MAY CUT 4 TO 1 STOCK 'MELON'

Directors Meeting Today in East.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 5.—Directors of the General Electric company at their regular dividend meeting here tomorrow are expected to consider a proposal to split the common stock on a basis of 4 shares for 1, it was reported in the financial district this afternoon.

Such a step, regarded as a strong possibility, is expected to yield some benefit, like the bridge boom. It is constantly becoming harder and harder to pick stocks which will give a profit.

Some day the market will begin to slide off, sellers will exceed buyers, and paper profits will begin to disappear.

Then there will immediately be a stampede to save what paper profits exist.

"Investors trusts will first begin to act. They have so broadly advertised their paper profits that they will be very anxious to cash in them.

As soon as the heads of these investment trusts really believe that we are in a bear market they will rush to sell.

It seems to me that such selling will be a great factor in accelerating a decline in prices as the buyers of these trusts have been a factor in increasing prices.

"As soon as word gets abroad that the large American investment trusts are selling, the European houses will begin to sell out their customers who are now buying in the American market.

The general public will then follow with a desire to cash in their margin accounts will be closed out, and then there may be a stampede for selling which will exceed the amount that the stock exchange has ever witnessed.

"Of course, the real bargains today are in the bond field. High grade bonds can be bought today to yield 6 per cent and many bonds which are perfectly safe can be bought to yield 7 per cent or even 8 per cent.

Securities which have been a little early when advised people to buy bonds last March, but it is better to buy the same advice, and it is better today than ever."

FARMERS APPEAR LESS HOSTILE TO PACKERS' STORES

Willing for Modification of Consent Decree.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Both, the American Farm Bureau federation and the National Farmers' union were today recorded as approving a limited modification of the consent decree under which the Chicago "Big Four" packers are prohibited from operating retail stores, handling unrelated food stuffs or having any interest in stockyards, terminals or market journals.

Members of the committee of agriculture and department bureau chiefs, holding hearings to determine the attitude of agriculture generally toward the packers' petition for modification now pending in the District Supreme court, declined to make public the brief filed by Sen. H. Thompson, president of the farm bureau, before the federal court.

It is understood, however, that, in accordance with resolutions adopted by the federation's directorate at its last annual meeting in Chicago, Mr. Thompson recommended removal of the ban upon the operation of retail stores and the handling of commodities other than meat products, but disapproved modification to permit the packers to own or control stockyards, terminals and market journals.

Conservative View from Kansas.
In a telegram to the committee, C. E. Huff of Salina, Kas., president of the National Farmers' union, asserted his organization "believes some modification necessary but also believes that great care should be used not to destroy cooperative interests in poultry and dairy industries."

The American Farm congress, according to its president, W. J. Drummond, who met here before the committee yesterday, favors as a measure beneficial to producer and consumer alike the modification recommended by the American Farm Bureau federation. The fourth of the great national farm organizations, the Grange, will make its position known following a meeting of its executive committee to be held in St. Paul.

Until three years ago, the Grange consistently opposed either dissolution or modification of the decree, but it is generally believed that as a result of the unusual development of chain stores and the possibility that modification would widen the markets now available to its members, the organization will line up with the other three groups.

Wool Growers Assail Decree.

Among the witnesses who appeared before the committee, K. V. Chambers, representing the Colorado State Wool Growers' association, denounced the decree as "a very unfair discrimination against the packers which is reflected against both the producer and the consumer." He insisted that the entry of the packers into the retail market would stimulate competition bound to result in higher prices for the farmer and lower prices for the consumer.

W. P. Mahoney, president of the Oregon Wool Growers' association, asserted "neither producer nor consumer has benefited by the decree," and added that the farmer is entitled to every possible agency for the disposal of his products. His association, Mr. Mahoney said, "is in full agreement with the decree to permit the packers to own and operate stock yards and terminal railroads, but would not approve packers' control of market journals.

Shippers Plead for Packers.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 5.—[AP]—Refief from restrictions imposed on packers by the "consent decree of 1920" was urged in resolutions adopted yesterday by the directors of the Northwestern Cooperating Shippers' association, recommended by J. H. Lawrence of Litchfield, Minn., president, and James Cook of Clearwater, Minn., secretary, were telegraphed to Secretary of Agriculture Arthur Hyde at Washington.

The two types of loans," Mr. Legge declared, "are expected to meet every merchandising need of the southern cotton cooperatives in their transactions with their membership and should result in a very considerable increase in the income and in the membership of the associations themselves. The amount of money involved will be limited only by the demands of the cooperatives."

FARM BOARD TO LEND 20 MILLION TO COTTON MEN

They Will Get Money by December 15.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—[Special.]—Extension of additional financial assistance to southern cotton cooperatives, enabling the organizations to advance members 75 per cent of the value of their cotton when delivered, was announced by the federal farm board today.

Several weeks ago the board announced the formation of an agreement with the intermediate credit banks, under which the cooperatives would be loaned a total of $6 per cent of the fixed value of the cotton, a plan designed to meet the needs of growers compelled to realize the full price of their cotton when they need money, whether or not the cotton actually has been sold by the association.

Two Types of Loans.

The new plan is intended to assist the grower who wishes to obtain a substantial advance on his cotton, pending sale by the cooperative, and under the two types of loans, according to Alfred L. Legge, chairman of the board, $20,000,000 will be advanced before Dec. 15.

"The two types of loans," Mr. Legge declared, "are expected to meet every merchandising need of the southern cotton cooperatives in their transactions with their membership and should result in a very considerable increase in the income and in the membership of the associations themselves. The amount of money involved will be limited only by the demands of the cooperatives."

Formation of a national cotton cooperative financing and selling organization, similar to the Farmers' National Grain corporation, recently organized at the board's suggestion, is under way, and it is to be hoped, will decide that "the same general policy of centralization of effort in the marketing of agricultural commodities will apply to other farm products.

Sponsored by Farmers.

"It is the desire of the board," Mr. Legge continued, "that eventually the organizations, if need be, controlled and operated by farmers, may become large enough to do for farmers on a permanent basis many of the things which the federal farm board is expected to do on a temporary basis.

Pending the organization of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, the board recently agreed to make supplemental loans to wheat cooperatives on practical the same basis adopted for cotton.

"These loans to wheat cooperatives will be on the basis of 10 cents per bushel on unsold wheat and on a basis of $6 per cent of the value of wheat on which a price has been fixed.

Must Qualify for Loans.

"Only those wheat and cotton associations which have qualified for loans from the federal intermediate credit banks can at this time be served by the supplemental loans of the federal farm board.

"The farm board itself has as yet no machinery with which to handle the loans. Through the courtesy of the federal farm loan board and the federal intermediate credit banks, however, the loan machinery of those banks has been available for use by the federal farm board, so that the loans from the government agencies are dependent upon the association's ability to supply large decreases, according to government reports, northern Illinois and Michigan beekeepers are gathering a record supply of high quality, light, white nectar. Bees Often Save Crops.

Although many have watched admiringly the industry and acumen of the honey bees for their own predicament might be without them. Horticulturists need them to pollinate their valuable fruit crops; bees often saving an entire crop in adverse seasons. Farmers and gardeners need them in the clover and alfalfa fields and among the flowers. The better beekeepers this year are averaging more than a hundred pounds of honey to the colony. And some are harvesting as high as 200 pounds of honey from an acre of sweet clover.

Chicagoland Honey Crop Keeps Them Hustling.

Crack Rock Island Trains on Display Today

Open house will be held aboard three crack trains of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad today in the La Salle street station, when a reception and exhibition from 11:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. will mark the inauguration of new passenger service to the West. The Western State Limited, the Nebraska Limited, and the Rocky Mountain Limited, newly equipped throughout, will be on exhibition previous to their maiden trips in the new service on Sunday.

foods we are called upon to live without honey.

Contrary to the common understanding, the beekeeper does not live on honey, but is almost entirely of vegetable derivation. Only the bee seems gifted with ability to sip from the blossom its delicious nectar and convert it into such an agreeably de-lightful form in great quantities.

Roan White Clover Fields.

This is why beekeepers search the rolling, blossoming fields of white clover and sweet clover in which to let their bees roam and explore. On the honey markets we find a constant, selective demand for "intermountain white sweet clover" or "alfalfa honey," and for "California white clover." Other call for "white clover" or "northeastern buckwheat honey."

Yet bees make possible a commercially profitable honey crop in every state of the union.

Only last week one of the unusual tasks in the highly skilled art of beekeeping was demonstrated by E. A. Becke, secretary of the Cook County Beekeepers' association. With the closing of the clover blossoms in the sun, forty-five colonies of bees were moved a distance of sixteen miles. Tired from long hours on the wing, the little fellows purred quietly and deft hands carried them to winter quarters—and, of course, without a single sting.

Enterprising apiculturists are well repaid, however, for the time and effort, though the honey crop is often uncertain. Amateurs and people in many walks of life love to care for their few little colonies as devotedly as housewives nurture their pet canaries. The better beekeepers this year are averaging more than a hundred pounds of honey to the colony. And some are harvesting as high as 200 pounds of honey from an acre of sweet clover.

Youths Avoid Love Letters, Girls Complain

Backed by Club

BY DORIS BLAKE

A young woman doubts that her boy friend loves her because he does not write her often, and with three thousand miles between them it is hard to keep on "believing" without more frequent communications.

A second girl reports that the one she likes told her frankly he would never write her a love letter for, he says, "Look what happens to the goofs who do! Paying bush money—blackmail victims! No, they'll never catch this wise boy!"

The demise of the gentle art of letter writing, then, may not be a neglected art, such as embroidery or needlework, which has lost its demand for them; the letters, not the dollies or the china, if you believe the ladies, is just as great as it was when Jonathan Swift and Stella were doing their high-powered love stuff via the post.

If you read your morning papers, tab or otherwise, you wonder how any girl can be so stupid as to let a boy's name to pen his name to an epistle with a simple "dear" in it. Just the other day wasn't a prominent name dragged into an inquest because in an idle moment the owner had penned a not what you would call familiar line, either?

So, I guess you cannot judge the depth of a man's affection by the letters he does not write. You'll have to apply other methods. With three thousand miles between them, I don't know what substitute will keep a girl's courage up, unless it be a night letter, postcard or telegram.

And then are there what the young downstate girls call "not so hot." Or they'd better not be!

But Dulcy would say: "None but the brave deserve the fair," and if a man won't write, he'll have to devise some other scheme to keep himself from being a fool. Of course, these are the clever marks the world over with quick communication and delivery, and there are travel mementoes that might be forwarded occasionally to show which way the heart lies.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Dear Miss Blake: I have been out with a few other times, but of late we have not taken up our "MANY LOU."

It looks as though some other girl has usurped your place in his affection, Mary Lou. But there are plenty of nice boys left.

The Proof.

Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a fellow who is in love with me, but he pays more attention to another girl. Do you think I stand a chance? DARLING.

Not so good a chance as the girl who receives the larger share of attention, Darling. That's proof she's the favorite.

NEWS TO HIM, IS
SMITH COMMENT
ON SENATE DEAL

New York, Sept. 5.—[Special]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith today agreed a persistent report that he might succeed Dr. Royal S. Copeland as United States senator with the words:

"I know nothing about it. First I heard of it."

Mr. Smith was reached at Southampton, where he is spending a brief vacation and has taken up duties as president of the company which is to erect an eighty-story building on the site of the Waldorf-Astoria.

According to the report, Dr. Copeland will resign his office to head the sanitation commission, and Mr. Smith will once more return to politics. That the former governor is "retired" from public life is denied by no less an authority than Mr. Smith himself.

That Gov. Smith would contest the senatorial nomination with his old friend, Robert F. Wagner, in 1932 is unthinkable. Reports from Washington, however, indicate that Dr. Copeland, who now in New York has no thought of relinquishing his senatorial tag, especially in favor of the former governor.

Reappoints 5 on State's Board to Test Architects

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 5.—[P.]—Reappointments to the board of the State Architects' Examining committee were announced as follows here today: Emory S. Hall and R. C. Ostergren, both of Chicago; Herbert Hewitt, Peoria; Prof. M. M. White and Prof. L. C. Pringle, both of the University of Illinois, Urbana.

Members of the Structural Engineers' Examining committee re-appointed today were as follows:

T. L. Condon, Isaac F. Stern, J. H. Price and H. E. Vanderlip, all of Chicago and Prof. W. M. Wilson, University of Illinois, Urbana.

Europe Calls to Chicagoans for Fall Trips

TO WED SATURDAY

BY THALIA —
Nothing daunted by the prospect of rough ocean crossings, several of our townfolk are setting forth for Europe in a few days, while most of our fashionable population is heading towards home.

The young Arthur Bissell of 116 West Oak street are to take a belated honeymoon, which Mr. Bissell, medical student, postponed at the time of their marriage last spring. Theirs is a short one, visiting Mr. Bissell's uncle, Richard M. Bissell, at Farmington, Conn., and will sail on Sept. 14 for three months' vacation.

Walter S. Brewster have closed their Lake Forest house and are embarking this week, to go to London, Paris, and various places in Europe. They will be gone about two months and should be back in time for the opening of the new opera house.

Mr. Arthur E. Bendelari of 1540 North Dearborn drive left yesterday for New York to sail on Saturday on the Levi France for a two months' trip. He will be accompanied by his sister, Mrs. E. Arnsperger of Lexington, Ky., and of course, they're going to Paris.

And of the "returnees" Mrs. John Lewis Cochran Jr., who is one of the 100 victims, came down this week from Mackinac Island, where she and the Cochran children have been all summer, and is staying at the Ambassador during the patience trying stage of fixing up the residence at 1425 State Parkway that the Cochran parents bought as a holiday home of occupying. If all goes well, by Nov. 1, Mr. and Mrs. and the children will be back next week. Mrs. Cyrus G. Hill of 25 Scott street and her youngsters, who have also been at Mackinac, are due on Wednesday.

Edward F. Dunn of 177 Gordon terrace, former governor of Illinois, an aviator, the engagement of one of his two daughters, Geraldine, to Walter E. Barry of Minneapolis, Minn.

teau Thierry. The wedding is planned to take place some time in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Brayton Campbell of New York have announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Lee, to N. Bayard Clinch Jr., of 4600 Elgin avenue. Miss Campbell was graduated from Radcliffe college with the class of 1929, and Mr. Clinch is a University of Chicago graduate and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. No date for the wedding is announced.

The debut tea of Miss Lois Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Day Truett of Winnetka, will take place this afternoon, to be the first of a series of about four such parties scheduled for this month on the north shore. Mr. and Mrs. Truett are giving the reception at the Indian Hill club, and the debutantes who are to assist Miss Truett include Miss Anna Small, Miss Janet Kirk, Miss Joy Fairman, Miss Helen Bell, Miss Elizabeth Durham, Miss Emily Pope, Miss Eleanor Sherman, Miss Eleanor Cushman, Miss Margaret Lee, Miss Lynde, Miss Elizabeth Parker, Miss Tracy, and Miss Elizabeth La Marche of Cleveland, O., who will be among the assistants.

A booklet by Mrs. Bevans on "Prayers and Graces for Children" will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If we parents could only realize that prevention is better than any cure!

It may have been said in this department before, but it will stand saying again. If we start right and keep the right way we've prevented trouble, so we don't have to worry for it.

It's the like modern physician are pointing out—prevent your illness instead of waiting till it comes and then curing it. It's the psychological line we must take with our children. Here is a letter that was inspired by some one's problems of treating disrespect from their children:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Apropos of the subject of Disobedience, I say I only know of our own experience, in the hope that it may help some one else!"

"Early in my young motherhood days it was borne in upon me what a frightful responsibility was mine. Three little ones about my knees! I think, because the burden loomed so large, I was given to see what to me proved a great factor in the relationship of mother and children:

"That factor was the dignity of childhood. It seemed to me an awesome thing. So I learned to respect that child dignity. And I [we] learned to be as careful, as respectful, as polite, as quickly kind and generous, to our children as we were to the guest in our home."

"Hence—when the little ones began to talk we answered their questions cordially, without being asked and asked and asked! And we also learned to respect the patience of the little children when they were compelled to ask and ask and ask!

"And if we blundered in our blind attempts at discipline [which of course we did] we never failed to apologize sincerely, wait until we asked and asked and asked! And we also learned to respect the patience of the little children when they were compelled to ask and ask and ask!

"A great factor in our home has always been the reverse of respect which has outwardly existed between father and mother. As a result, we have never had one word of disrespect; never one act of deliberate, willful disobedience, and always the greatest care for our comfort."

Now we are grandparents, and our children are perfectly normal, in that they go wild over football, dancing, and honeymoon bridge!"

"And father and mother are stepping right along as fast as is dignified—footballing, dancing and honeymoon bridging!"

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address: Chicago Tribune, 247 Park Avenue. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

And Then They Sat!
I just had to laugh every time I entered the embarrasing moment that confronted the other night. A charming college friend was visiting me and I had arranged through the best boy friend to have another fellow complete the foursome on a date. Janet became ill on the scheduled night and I phoned our regrets shortly before the others were to arrive.

Later in the evening Janet declared she was feeling better but bored, so we hastened off to the nearest vaudeville house in town. Rushing down the main aisle through a mob of people intent on finding seats also, we slipped into the fourth row and sat down. Suddenly the lights dimmed, revealing us to our newest addition and our nearest neighbors to us. Yes, there beside us sat the "turned down" date. Embarrassed is no word for the whole four of us. E. P.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each child's saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or newspaper, or in any book, and must not return unsolicited contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address: Bright Sayings to Auntie Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

While nursing in a home where a new baby had arrived I was fixing the tray for the mother. Marjorie, aged 4, and Ruth, aged 3, were watching me longingly. Finally Marjorie, full of gratitude, said to me, "When you have a baby my mother will come over and fix you a tray like that."

At which the younger sister, Ruth, replied, "She don't have any babies; she sells them." Mrs. C. L.

One day little Bobbie, aged 3, went with his aunt visiting his grandmother. At dinner time his grandma said: "Bobbie, have anything you want to eat?" Bobbie replied: "O, don't mind me, I am a self-helper." F. F.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A Chance to Help Some Boys.

A small social settlement is greatly interested in a group of boys from 15 to 17 years of age who show great interest as a baseball team. Most of the boys come from broken homes and are utterly unable to purchase baseball suits. I am wondering if any of your readers have cast-off suits to pass on.

"Mrs. A. M."

I think these boys should be encouraged in spending their leisure time in such a wholesome way and supplying them with necessary equipment would be one way to do it. Have you a suit to give them?

"H. K."

This young man is so interested in music and so anxious to learn to play one of these instruments, it would be a joy and satisfaction to teach him.

If you are an instructor with time on your hands perhaps you could squeeze his lesson.

Exercise Will Produce Those
Smart New Curves

As a result of the last years of uncorrected figures, there are many cases of flaccid, sagging, even pendulous bosoms. Whatever may be said against the old type of high corset, it did lend a support to the bust that prevented the muscle sagging, so commonly complained of.

Almost throughout the entire history of woman, she has worn some form of bust support. The earliest may have belonged in early classic periods. French women evolved brassieres. Various devices throughout the centuries have been used to protect against the possibility of sagging, a defect that ruins the contour.

The average girl, after she has reached mature proportions, is far better off with a brassiere of some kind than without. If one were more given to the kind of exercise that makes strong muscular development of the chest, this would not be true. But they are not, by a great majority, and so protection should be taken by the wearing of a brassiere of some kind to hold up the bust and keep it in position.

However, it is better to go without any support than to enclose the bust, as it was done for some seasons, in a viscose band for the purpose of compressing it and getting the flat, boyish chest. But that style is passé now and in its place we find a greatly improved article to replace the usual bust supporters of yesterday, the up-to-date type of brassiere.

Properly developed busts are difficult to prescribe for outside of recommending exercise that demand deep breathing, such as swimming. They are, however, usually lacking in glandular growth, and treatments consisting of selected glandular extracts are required but should only be accepted upon reputable medical advice.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

V. H.: TO CORRECT ROUND shoulders you must first learn to stand correctly. Stand with abdomen drawn in, chest out, and think of your back as in a straight line from the waist to the head. Allow the shoulders to fall naturally, with arms and head relaxed. Try walking this way several times during the day for a period of ten or fifteen minutes.

OLIVE H.: ALLOW YOURSELF A certain amount of time for your meals and this may help. If you overcomes the habit of gulping down your food. Start the meal slowly and you will soon form the habit of eating slower. The food will taste better and your meals will be a real pleasure.

H. T.: FOR ROUGH SKIN ON the arms and legs wash with warm water and then rub with a brush. Rinse thoroughly, dry, and apply a cold oil with sufficient frequency to keep the skin soft and pliable.

Ermine Wrap is Really a Dolman

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence)—Standing room only—this seems to be the notice posted to all for coats of the season. In every type of garment these collars that stand high in the back constitute a feature of the autumn modes.

We find this illustrated once more in the lovely evening wrap of ermine pictured above. In this case the collar is made more effective by the addition of rippling reverses which soften the front. For the back the wrap is dignified because it advocates that dolman style which is being so widely featured at present. As will be seen, it is sleeveless, but is given the semblance of a jacket by the bolded line at the hips.

One of the most interesting factors in making our autumn mode is a tremendous variety of confections with sheer treatments. For example, in the latest coats from Martial et Armand the sleeves are administered without armholes. Indeed, a few of the frocks designed by this house indicate the same subtraction. Another Paris atelier marking much of sleeve fineness is that of Vionnet. The latest coat is a creation of the whole style of a coat dependent upon some unconventional moulting of the sleeve.

To go back to the fur fashions, one of the interesting novelties of the season is the dying of both ermine and sable to one of those off-white tones which have been so fashionable. For example, both of these pets sometimes exhibit an eggshell tone.

THESE BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES SPELL DOLLARS FOR INVESTORS

ANY man will go out of his way to get a good meal. He prefers to have his gas tank filled at the station that gives him gas and good will. His wife will walk a block to buy bread and rolls that are a little tastier, a little crispier. She wants to have her hair waved by a capable worker and a friendly one. Men or women will return—will bring others—to the store or shop that is just a little better than the ordinary.

This trade-building opportunity in small businesses—restaurants, beauty shops, bakeries and others—puts thousands of people on the road to independence and happier life. They have their own business. They are their own bosses. They divide their profits with no one—and they satisfy the human craving for freedom to own, to build, to make money.

You can join their ranks! Look in the Tribune Want Ad Section for the store and location you want. Plan now to break into the group of independent owners yourself! Pick your opportunity from among the offers in the Business Chances column.
